

Patrick last entrepreneur of the year nomination

This months article focuses on an interview with Patrick last, President of Make It Last Inc., which owns Salisbury Electronics & Computers.

Mr. Last has recently been nominated for the prestigious "Entrepreneur of the Year" award, granted by the CBDC (Canadian Business and Development Corporation) of South Eastern New Brunswick. This is the first year that nominations have been considered from Salisbury. It is a great honor to be able to compete with Metropolitan business owners. Mr. Last is the first business owner nominated locally with the potential to put Salisbury on the competitive map with Moncton!

Q: Mr. Last, your shop at 3134 Main Street in Salisbury has become quite well known. There have been many adjustments along the way and advancements to your business. Can you take us back to the early beginnings of your entrepreneurship in Salisbury?

A: Absolutely. We opened our doors on January 15, 2000. At that point, we were located adjacent to our home and with very humble beginnings. I was the only employee and our main focus at that time was fixing electronics, such as TVs, VCRs, A/V, even old record players! We were featured in the Times and Transcript and described as "a quaint mom and pop fix-it shop". The demand for us to do more quickly grew. We began fixing computers in 2001 and selling them in 2002. Our staff began to grow. In 2003 we moved our business to the Salisbury Plaza, 3070 Main Street in Salisbury. This was a huge step for our business, and we reaped the rewards of having taken the risk. We stayed at this location for nine years and enjoyed it very much. The village of Salisbury, along with outlying areas, supported our move. We are getting close to finishing our renovations at our new store, and are planning to have our Grand Opening around beginning of December.

ing around beginning of December.
We became known as the local stop for ink, cables, computer accessories and parts, and now Remote Control Toys. There are few things that are electronic in nature that we didn't sell! We became the local dealership for Xplornet High-Speed Internet and Shaw Direct Digital TV. Many people depended on us to stay connected for business or pleasure.

Q: While it is true that the community has supported you in your business, you have also done much to support the community. You have always been a loyal customer of other local businesses and often generous with your support of local charities and events. Beyond these things, you have provided local employment in a small rural economy! Mr. Last, how many people locally does your business now support?

A: Currently, we employ six people, including myself. Over the years, make it last Inc. has employed over 20 local people. I am currently looking to hire an Administrative Assistant.

Q: Impressive! How have you noticed your business evolving over the last few years?

A: While we still offer most of the services and products we always have to the public, we have expanded as well into the corporate world. We service the electronic and computer needs of many businesses. We do on-site service. We have recently taken on more corporate contracts regarding point-to-point wireless systems, with great success. Because of my background as an electronics technician, computer technician, electromagnetic remediation specialist, I have a vast understanding of how Radio Waves travel and what causes interference. I have been able to use this knowledge to the benefit of my clientele.

Update on the "Cup of Java"

A glowing ad once stated "A very wholesome and physical drink that helpeth indigestion, quickeneth the spirits, maketh the heart lightsome, is good against eye sores, coughs, headache, gout and the King's evil". It was the year 1657, when coffee was first introduced into London, England from the Middle East. And what was the King's evil?

In recent years people have considered coffee drinking a questionable habit with some refusing coffee for health reasons. So what are the pros and cons for drinking a cup of java?

First, the good news. Coffee contains over 1,000 naturally occurring chemicals. Caffeine is actually a natural pesticide that helps to protect coffee plants from predators. Brewed coffee contains between 60 to 120 milligrams of caffeine that stimulates the nervous system, improving alertness and mood. It's therefore not surprising that a British Medical Journal reports an Australian study that shows caffeine decreased the risk of accidents for longdistance truck drivers.

Over 20 studies show that coffee also helps to reduce the risk of Type 2 diabetes caused by obesity. Coffee contains chlorogenic acid which decreases the absorption of glucose from the bowel. The less glucose in the blood, the less strain on insulin production. But coffee is of no help for those who already have diabetes.

What about the risk of cardiovascular disease? Finnish researchers followed 20,000 coffeeloving Finns for 10 years. They concluded that coffee and non-coffee drinkers shared the same risk of coronary attack or dying of heart disease. In 2012 a large German study reached the same conclusion. Later, a Norwegian study reported that older women, drinking one to three cups of coffee daily, were 24 percent less likely to die of cardiovascular disease than non-drinkers.

For years people have worried about the effect of coffee on blood pressure, but there is no consensus on this issue. A Finnish study of 27,000 healthy men and women who took coffee revealed that after 13 years there was a 14 percent greater risk of hypertension. However, a Harvard study of 45,000 people, failed to link coffee with increased blood pressure. And even better news, a Swedish study revealed a decreased risk of stroke.

A report in Experimental Neurobiology states that coffee appears to have a protective effect against the development of Parkinson's Disease. The Finns love their java and those who consumed 10 or more cups daily had an astounding 84 percent decreased risk of developing this disease. In addition, those who drank six or more cups daily had a 40 percent decreased

The news about cancer is good and bad. Some studies show a link to pancreatic malignancy, an increase in leukemia, stomach and bladder cancer. But other research shows protection against colon, rectal and liver cancer.

Do you want to live longer? A report in the New England Journal of Medicine shows that those who drank at least two cups of coffee (regular or decaf) were 10 to 15 percent less likely to die over a 14 year period.

Now the bad, bad news. Studies show that only 35 percent of people drink coffee black. Milk, cream and sugar add calories. Moreover, specialty shops have added significant calories to a cup of java. So it pays to be prudent about what you add. The best choice is skim milk or low fat milk. Or consider artificial sweeteners, cinnamon or spices that don't add calories or fat. But whatever way you like your java you end up with a cup that contains either a low of 16 calories or a whopping 500!

It's prudent for pregnant women to limit the intake of coffee. Some studies show that excessive amounts of coffee increase the risk of miscarriage.

So enjoy your cup of java. Common sense dictates that not many evils lurk in coffee unless it's overloaded.

But could a cup of java cure "the King's evil"? Years ago, it was believed that the King's touch could cure a tuberculosis swelling of lymph glands in the neck. This royal touch was first used by Edward the Confessor. Later folk lore has it that Charles II touched 90,000 victims. My bet is these people should have stayed home.

Q: I understand that you also have specialized training in repairing certain machines for handling money?

A: Yes. Over the last number of years, I have been contracting with the century old company with an office in Ontario who provides money sorting machines to various institutions. They had been looking for somebody in the Maritimes who had a background in both electronics and mechanics, with an understanding of computers. They actually sought me out and it has been a synergistic partnership that has taken me places internationally.

It is safe to say that make it last Inc. has certainly become diversified since its humble beginnings. Yet the diversity continues into some surprising twists and turns as we continue our interview with Mr. Last in next month's article. Join us again, as we learn about this entrepreneurs true passion and alter-ego business, EMFatik!

Good luck, Mr. Last, with the nomination. We hope you win!

in their charter. The motion was made by Clayton Cusack to construct a new building seconded by Ralph Keith. So in the same year land was acquired from Arnold Alward on Route 880 and construction was started. So with volunteers from both the Legion and Auxiliary members they were able to have the grand opening of the new Branch 86 in May of 1980.

This is the same location where we proudly gather monthly for our executive and general membership meetings.

Although we are a struggling legion, as so many of the smaller legions are doing today, we are still here to support our Veterans, our community, and other organizations.

We will be celebrating our 60th anniversary with a meal and a gathering of our comrades with an open dance to follow.

Lest We Forget!

60 years ago on the 8th, day of May 1953 this small community of Havelock, NB received the Charter for the Havelock, NB Branch No. 86 of the Royal Canadian Legion with pride.

This was brought about by a small group of Veterans from the Havelock area getting together and doing their do diligent and finally forming their group. Have Chiasson, now living in Sussex, being voted in as president.

Over the next 26 years various functions were held and local organizations, such as Cubs & Scouts, Cadets and families in needed were included in their programs.

Then one Saturday afternoon in July 1979 tragedy struck – fire broke out in the legion hall. All contents, records & memorabilia and the building were lost in the fire. What was to become of their legion?

In the next few days to come a meeting was called but with no building the members gathered across the street from the ruins in the backyard of a member, John Prince. It was there that the president, Harry Burgess, asked the membership what they wanted to do – start again and build or turn

You're Going to Love Europe in The Off-Season by Carol Harper

It seems to me a common misconception that travel to Europe is meant only for the months of summer and early fall, when in fact, the off-season can be one of the best times to travel to Europe.

Travel in Europe is typically divided into three seasons. Low season which is also called the off-season is November through March; April through mid-June as well as September through October is known as the Shoulder season and the High season is mid-June through August.

If you do not enjoy travelling in the sweltering heat, wading through crowds of people and waiting in crowded lines, what seems like forever, for entrance into famous landmarks, then off-season may be for you. Daylight hours are shorter so it is important to get an early start to your day and also remember it may be chilly or rainy at times, so go prepared with a heavy sweater, waterproof windbreaker, warm socks and gloves. You may also want to put an umbrella in your suitcase.

From my own travel experience, I prefer to travel anywhere from mid- September through December. This is the time of year when you experience fewer tourists and spend less time waiting for entrance to major attractions. It is a more relaxed, laid back atmosphere and you can spend time chatting with the local people and browsing through near empty cultural attractions such museums and art galleries.

And it is the least expensive time to visit Europe. In fact, if you travel on escorted or guided vacations, which I highly recommend, you can save considerably on the cost of your tour. Some companies, such as Trafalgar, offer Autumn, Winter and Spring vacations to Europe and Great Britain for up to 21% less than Summer travel with First Class accommodations and transportation included. Or maybe, you would enjoy having your hotel on the river, in which case you would choose a river cruise for the area of Europe you wish to visit.

If you do decide to take advantage of the special prices offered for or off-season travel, it is best to remember that these book up quickly.

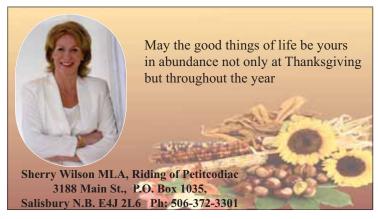

This is the time of year to enjoy cultural events such as the theater, symphony and opera. In November and December Europe becomes ablaze with twinkling lights and the smells of rich delicious gingerbread drift through the air as you stroll through the many Christmas markets in Austria, Germany and Switzerland. The famous markets of Munich, Cologne and Vienna are world famous but many people enjoy the fewer crowds at the smaller markets throughout the country's smaller villages and towns. This is the season for festivals and carnivals, such as Venice's Carnevale in February, winter sports like skiing in the Alps, and sipping hot chocolate in a cozy café.

This is a great time to explore the ancient sites of Greece, Italy, Spain or Portugal where the weather is quite a bit warmer although it is also a wonderful time to visit the large cities of London, Paris, Brussels to name a few. Or maybe you would like to see what winter is like in Iceland or Lapland.

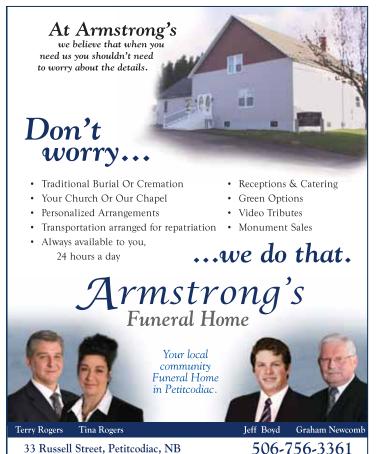

If you do decide to go, no matter where you go, remember it is all about the adventure!

Halloween safety: Tips for families

Halloween can be a fun and exciting time for kids. These safety tips for parents, children and homeowners will help keep everyone safe and happy this Halloween.

For parents:

- •Do not use masks. Masks make it hard for children to see what's around them, including cars. Try a hypo-allergenic (less likely to cause an allergic reaction), non-toxic make-up kit instead.
- Make or buy costumes in light-coloured material. Place strips of reflective tape on the back and front, so that drivers can better see your child.
- •Costumes should fit properly to prevent trips and falls. Avoid items such as oversized shoes, high heels, long dresses or capes.
- •Put your child's name, address and phone number on his costume.
- •Children under 10 should be accompanied by an adult for trick or treating. By the age of 10, some children are ready to go trickor-treating with a group of friends.

If your child is going out without an adult:

•Make sure your child is in a group of at least 3 people.

- •Give them a flashlight. A cell phone is also a good idea if you have one.
- •Draw a map outlining the route they should follow. Ask them to call you if they plan to go on a street that isn't on the route.
- •Set a curfew (and make sure they have a watch with them).
- •Tell your children not to eat anything until they get home.

For children and youth:

- •Carry a white bag or pillowcase for your candy, or add some reflective tape.
- •Bring a cell phone, in case you need to make an emergency phone call.
- •Always travel in groups. Be sure there are at least 3 of you at all times.
- •Let your parents know where you're going to be at all times.
- •Don't visit houses that are not well lit. Never go inside a stranger's house.
- •Walk on the sidewalk whenever possible. If there's no sidewalk, walk on the side of the road facing traffic.
- •Don't criss-cross back and forth across the street. Work your way up one side of the street, and then start on the other.
- •If you have any allergies, tell the person who is giving out the treats.

•Don't eat any of your treats before you get home. When home, ask your parents look through your treats with you to make sure everything is okay.

For homeowners:

- •Turn on outdoor lights, and replace burntout bulbs.
- •Remove items from your yard or porch that might trip a child.
- •Sweep wet leaves from your steps and sidewalk.
- •Use alternative to candles in your pumpkins, such as a flashlight or a battery-operated candle. If you are using a candle, don't leave the pumpkin unattended.
- •Remember that some children have food allergies. Consider giving treats other than candy, such as stickers, erasers or yo-yos.

Alternatives to traditional trick-ortreating

- •Local community centres sometimes offer Halloween night activities.
- •Local shopping centres often have trickor-treat nights for young children in a more controlled environment.
- •Plan a Halloween night at home with themed games and movies. Invite friends.

THE NIGHT OF HALLOWEEN.

The Harvest moon fills the sky A wicked witch goes flying by Ghosts and goblins..skeleton's too. Moaning and groaning, waiting for you

Black cats prowl the graveyard plots Witches cook in cauldron pots

Cemetery ghouls roam the ground Not one unopened grave is found

Tombstones are an eerie sight Shadows dance in full moon light

The haunted house on the hill Walk in there and you get a chill

Jack-o-lanterns eyes so bright Trick or Treaters scream in fright

It's a time like you've never seen Tonight's the night of Halloween.

Everyday People

Submitted by Sheila Boissoneault

The story this month is about cars, and a man who enjoyed working on, building, and racing them. His name is Jim MacPherson.

Jim was born in Elgin in 1940. He attended school there until Grade 6. Then his family moved to Petticodiac where he continued his schooling to Grade 10 after which he went to Technical School and took a mechanics' course. He really wanted to be a machinist, but there was a greater need for mechanics. He discovered he loved mechanics.

At 19 he went to work for GM dealer in Sussex. He was injured on the job by being crushed between an oil barrel and a 53 Chevrolet; his leg was broken and became infected causing him to lose a half year of work. Later he met the lad who ran into him and told him it wasn't his fault that he, Jim, was in the wrong place at the wrong time. Jim said to me that it could have been worse he's still able to walk on it and it doesn't give him any trouble.

Later on he met his future wife Phyllis Bishop, from the River Glade area; they both worked at Clarks in Petticodiac. They married and raised two girls and a boy.

1965 his friends had the desire to build a car and they wanted him to race it. They bought a '55 Buick and Jim entered the world of racing. Following that car he always drove a Chrysler. In 1966 he built his own car. Before racing he thought he could better than the guys on the track, but after a time he discovered he was just the same as they.

Racing proved to be time consuming, fixing to go to the races, preparing to return home, and on top of that holding down a full time job. Then there are the dangers; at a race in Fredericton, driving a new car, he hit the wall so hard that the seat belts, which were old parachute harness, pulled on his chest; it took Jim five years getting over that one.

At the River Glade Track Paul Lewis had the most wins, 88, and in that time frame Jim won 66. Jim also did well in Douglastown and St. John. He won a big one in Bathurst, and he lost a big one there also, that's the one he remembers the most. He was experiment ing with automatic transmis-

and half way through it over heated and he was in the lead; he realized then he needed a cooling system on the transmission. He had had to pull over and let Caleb Dunn and Frankie Fraser pass him by. Another time in Halifax a guy ahead of him blew his engine going around the turn at 100mph on the 1/2 mile track; Jim hit him and bounced off the wall. Another car hit the guard rail and went right through it. Jim said he finished fourth or fifth that race. He wrecked a car at a race in River Glade, turned upside down and end over end, only knocking off his glasses, the crew thought he was hurt as he was reached for his glasses and they rushed to him but he told them to wait a minute he just wanted to get his glasses back on.

After the Saturday night races they would load up their cars, some badly needing repair. Jim heard one guy say to his crew to never mind the technical stuff just bang out the dents. Jim had an old '51 one ton truck he used to haul his cars, it cost him $13.00 in gas to drive to Fredericton and he made $150.00 for a day's racing.

Jim has built a '57 Plymouth, a '61 Valiant, a '62 Dodge, a '67 Dart, which was a new car; the one that hit the wall in Fredericton. He built a '69 Dart, a Chrysler Kit Car; he got the blueprints from Chrysler, and he still has the car. Then he built one with a Valarie fiberglass body, the engine was set back according to Chrysler specifications, then the rules were changed and they made him move the engine ahead. He was told that they can't change the rules to accommodate his car, but in fact it was making it legal, but they were accommodating the other cars. That's when Jim got out of racing. Jim said that he never built a car or done anything to cheat.

Jim also enjoys restoring and showing antique cars, in the picture he is with his 1951 Plymouth. He has worked on government cars and school busses.

These days Jim just works on cars, he said that if you bring him a car today and need it tonight, he can't fix it.

RICK'S RANT (OCT, 2013)

Last month, I took you on a trip from Amherst, NS to Petitcodiac as detailed in the 1921 edition of the "A.L.A. Official Guide", a hard covered book printed yearly to help you travel the roads through-out North America. Today you can go to triple A in the US, or to CAA here in Canada to get individual maps and "Trip-Tics" for whatever places you wish to explore. Or simply put a destination in the GPS and it does all the work for you, including the ice cream stands, coffee shops, points of interest, and yes, even gas stops for those needed "p" breaks!!! But do you really "see" this great land of ours traveling our new divided highways? Here is the rest of "Trip # 472, Amherst, NS to St.John, NB" from Petitcodiac to King Square in Saint John (note the spelling change since 1921). Most of these "old" roads are now paved and can still be traveled today.....what about using this 1921 guide to make the trip this coming weekend? It would be an interesting trip to the Loyalist City indeed!!!!!

SALISBURY HAPPENINGS

Salisbury Beautification Project

The Summer of 2013 is behind us now but it was a summer of bloom and blossom on Main Street in Salisbury. The beautiful hanging baskets and brilliant orange and yellow marigolds drew much attention and many positive comments from village locals and visiting folks. Several businesses participated by planting their own flower beds or adding colorful baskets to their storefronts. Salisbury was bursting with color and pride this past summer!

A big thank you goes out to the Village of Salisbury for purchasing the flowers and to the Village Works Department for hanging the baskets, watering, and fertilizing the plants all summer long. We would like to thank other local businesses and organizations who donated time, labour or materials to this initiative: Salisbury Lions Club, Salisbury Elementary School K-2 students and teachers, Salisbury Home Hardware, Goggin Signs and Graphics, MacNichol Landscaping Supplies, Pizza Mill, Ed and Ben Flowers, and Maritime Cash. To the many individuals who stopped and took time to weed and dead-head the flowers as they strolled by the planters this summer, your thoughtfulness was appreciated.

Try some of these out-of-cage options with your hamster.

By Audrey Pavia

Watching a hamster is entertaining in its own right, but hamsters can also be fun outside their cage. Once it's accustomed to being handled, a hamster can come out of its cage and interact with you in a hamster-proof area. Besides being fun, the chance to play and interact with people outside its cage is important for a hamster's well-being.

Hand-tamed hamsters enjoy being cuddled. Be careful not to squeeze too hard! A hamster will also enjoy climbing on you.

When you hold a hamster, be sure you're sitting on the ground or are holding the small animal over a tabletop. Hamsters are known to make sudden leaps, and a fall to the ground could injure or even kill them. If your hamster tries to squirm away from you or bites you, it's probably tired of being held. Put it back in its cage, and make a note not to hold it quite as long next time.

An exercise ball is another great way for a hamster to play outside its cage. Inside the ball, a hamster can have fun and be safe from household dogs and cats, although supervision is still required. Limit play in the ball to no more than 15 or 20 minutes, and then give the hamster a chance to eat and drink.

When you play with a hamster outside its cage, be sure the room you're in doesn't have any hazards, such as electrical cords, toxic plants or small spaces where the hamster could squeeze in and hide. A clean bathroom with a closed door is a good place to play with a hamster. Be sure the toilet lid is down so the animal doesn't accidentally go for a swim.

You can also purchase a hamster playpen to ensure that the hamster stays confined in a particular area. The playpen should be larger than the hamster's cage, so your pet has more room to run and explore. Place some toys and tunnels inside the playpen to make it interesting.

Most importantly, supervise carefully so the hamster doesn't escape. You might want to cover the playpen with a fine mesh screen to prevent an escape. Keep other animals out of the room during the hamster's playtime. Even if the hamster is safely confined, the presence of other animals could be stressful.

Think Like A Hamster

If the unthinkable happens and the hamster gets loose, think like a hamster to improve your chances of getting it back safely. Start the search near the hamster's cage. If you're lucky, it won't be for away. Look on the floor behind furniture, underneath furniture and between sofa and chair cushions.

Hamsters can climb, and they like to hide in small, dark places, so look inside drawers, on bookshelves, inside boxes — including shoe boxes or tissue boxes — and inside boots or shoes. Don't ignore a spot simply because you think it's too small for a hamster to hide in. You never know what they can squeeze into or under.

If your search fails, leave the cage open and place the hamster's favorite food near it and inside it. Turn the light out or wait until dark to see if the hamster shows up. You may also want to set out some food and surround it with flour. If your hamster finds the food, its tracks may lead you to its hiding place.
