How many of you are still sticking to your New Years resolution? So far the winter hasn't been too hard on us, I guess after last winter we are seasoned to the winter weather.

This is the time to renew your Annual Membership for the Maritime Motorsports Hall Of Fame if you haven't already, or join as a new member.

It is also time to buy your tickets on the Side-by-side that is being drawn March 26.

In conjunction with Heritage Week the Maritime Motorsports, at 5 Hooper Lane, is holding an Open House on February 10th from 11am-4pm. This will be a great time to come and view the history of motor sports. Snacks will be served.

The snowmobiling got off to a slow start this winter in this area, but there is still lots of winter left to come.

Enjoy the winter festivals being put on in our communities, lots of fun! If someone could supply us with information about the snowmobile happenings we could include it as news. Also the same with the other sports in our area.

Have a Very Happy Valentine's Day to everyone!

From your editor,
Winona McLean

RICK'S RANT

I recently had a teenaged girl, who had just obtained her driver's licence, ask me for some advice....she wanted to know how her car worked? Wow, that's a pretty big request, if we were to get into ALL the nitty-gritty..... But what she really wanted to know was just the everyday stuff so she could understand what she should be aware of as she drove....the safety features, preventative maintenance, how to perform simple do-it-yourself things like change a tire, check fluids, listen for strange noises... to use an old Boy Scout Moto, to "Be Prepared.". Before I knew it, her one year younger brother joined in and asked if he could learn too? What has happened to our youth? Back when I was a kid, I think every thirteen year old, especially the males, were deep into collecting all that info.....but of course to be fair I still don't know how to use Facebook!

would drive a motorized vehicle. And so began my career of building engine-driven conveyances.
During the year I turned 12, I had constructed a motorized "ice boat"....the freshly rebuilt 7 hp tiller motor was now mounted on the back of a 3-skateblabe, "t" shaped iceboat minus a sail, spinning a cluster of a dozen or so bicycle pedal crank sprockets digging into the frozen Sydney Harbour. The little motor drove my silly contraption about 10 mph (16 kms per hour) across the smooth ice. The spinning sprockets sprayed ice chips up like a rooster's tail, and I felt like Mario Andretti..... that kept the "need for speed" in check until the snow was gone. That spring I found an old mini bike frame, and the tiller motor got a new home.....I was the envy of every guy and gal on my street because I had a bright red motorcycle. Cooooo! "Brylcream---a little dab'll do ya....."

And that, my friends brings me to the whole point of this rant. During the sixties and seventies, hundreds...no, thousands of mini bikes were built and sold to kids all over North America. Today, old vintage mini bikes are sitting forgotten in sheds, and basements, barns, and at fleamarkets. Just last summer at the Sussex Fleamarket I saw at least a dozen that were priced under $200. What a great way to get a 12 or 13 year boy or girl interested in the "wonderful world of motorized vehicles".....and Dad or Mom could relive their lost childhood!!!!!! Mini bikes are probably the simplest form of riding/driving fun anyone could ever have. They aren't very fast, pretty simple to drive, and the fall to the ground is a relatively short one. You learn how it works, and breaks, how to make it your own with basic add-ons, and because you built it and got it working right, you will usually not destroy it. Pretty cheap fun for any age of kid, even the whole family.....

Well, I gotta go now....all this talk about mini bikes makes me want to check ebay.....

----- Rodder-Rick

It started me thinking that maybe we should have the "old school" shop programs put back into our school curriculum. I can see why my good friend's son and daughter wanted to expand their knowledge of motor vehicles, and yes they were certainly savvy enough to find it all on the internet. But can that ever beat the good old "hands on experience", or the "one on one" of talking about something and asking questions!!!!???

I started to think how I first got started into this crazy love for "all that is motorized". And I must say that this life-long hobby has provided me with many opportunities, life experiences, new friends, heartaches and fulfillment, pain and pleasure..... Nearly 55 years ago I obtained my first engine.... a 3 horsepower lawnmower unit that barely ran. I worked on that for days with a screwdriver, a pair of vice-grips, and a $2 set of sockets I found on sale at "Handy Andy". Well I did get that old motor purring like a kitten, but with only one speed (no throttle) and a vertical crankshaft, it really couldn't drive any vehicle I might want to build. BUT I could trade it with a neighbor, whose lawnmower had quit, and had an old tiller with horizontal crank and a variable speed carburator.....and that configuration

Elgin Women's Institute looks forward in 2016

Elgin W.I.'s first meeting of 2016 was held on Thursday, January 21st at the Seniors' Hall. After anthems and the reciting of Mary Stewart's Collect, President Hazelanna Carter welcomed back Julie Kean Marks as a member and extended birthday greetings to our secretary, Elsie Steeves, who turned seventy on that very day. Welcome, Julie and Happy Birthday, Elsie!

For roll call, each member was asked to give a positive spin on international news. Many found encouragement in the resettlement stories of Syrian refugees in Canada while one of us noted that the plummeting of oil prices has resulted in cheaper gas. Associated Country Women of the World, an affiliate of the Women's Institute, was also noted as progress toward understanding. Moranda vanGeest had just returned from a trip to Holland and expressed excitement at the international variety of markets there.

Plans were discussed to continue work on the W.I. Hall kitchen including finishing touches on walls, plumbing and a water station in the dining hall.

New business: Bonny Price and Moranda vanGeest volunteered to organize the potluck supper on Thursday, February 18th at the Seniors' Hall. Members can invite friends to what is always an opportunity to shake off the winter blahs (last year's theme was tropical) and enjoy good company and food. A brief meeting will follow.

Elgin Branch members will again cater lunch at the International Women's Day celebration on Saturday, March 5th. This annual event, of interest to women of all ages, will take place from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Community Centre. The local theme will be "Spread Your Wings" with guest speakers, music, lively discussions and a look ahead to that time of growth and creativity, spring!

International Affairs convener, Evelyn Beaman, provided the evening's program with news of extreme winter temperatures in the Balkans. As refugees and migrants crossed by boat from the Turkish coast to Greece's Aegean Islands and then north into Macedonia and Serbia, they were met with unseasonably low January temperatures and deep snow. Evelyn's newspaper clipping recounted the perilous conditions met by families who've fled the civil wars in Syria and Afghanistan to seek new lives in Western Europe and hosting countries such as Canada.

Meeting ended with a rousing chorus of "Happy Birthday, Dear Elsie" with cake and refreshments by Bonny and Moranda.

The Greater Salisbury Refugee Committee

The ongoing political situation in Syria has created an opportunity for the rest of the world to show just how kind and accepting the human spirit can be. While millions of people are being forced to flee their war ravaged country, millions more in safe countries are preparing to welcome them to a new life.

The Greater Salisbury Refugee Committee is made up of members from several local area churches as well as members of the community at large and has begun the process of sponsoring a refugee family. We feel very strongly that our community will provide a wonderful and accepting home where this family will be supported and loved while they work hard to deal with what has happened to them and their former country. It is our hope that Salisbury and area residents will band together and give this family everything that war has taken from them.

In order to help this family we will need to provide them with a suitable place to live as well as furnishings, clothing, food, transportation and support in many ways.

We will be accepting financial donations (over $20 will receive a tax receipt) as well as quality, gently used household items. We are planning several fundraisers around the community so keep an eye out for more information on upcoming events.

To make a donation, for more information or if you have ideas on how to help this family please contact

Andre at 756-2550 andrevanagten@gmail.com or Nadine at 856-6181 nadineinallison@gmail.com

You can also find us on Facebook at <https://www.facebook.com/groups/4446659071144/>
Or search Greater Salisbury Refugee Committee

Let's show this family how great it is to call Salisbury home.

The Elgin Eco Association

The E.E.A. has partnered with the communities of Havelock, Petitcodiac and Salisbury to plan seasonal events. Ours is winter so we are planning a "Winter Fest" for March 12th with the storm date being on the 13th. Free registration will be from 11 a.m. – 3 p.m. at the Senior's Hall or Community Center (still to be decided).

Some snow shoes will be available for use. We will have 3 levels of snow shoe trails.
(1) Kids (2) Easy and (3) More difficult.

There will be chili, doughnuts and hot drinks for sale. Also skating if the weather permits. Come and bring the whole family for a fun day!

The ice rink is operational and we welcome everybody for a skate anytime

Volunteers are always welcome and appreciated!

Our next meeting will be on February 4, at 7 p.m. at the Senior's Hall. Please join us!

We cannot forget your smiling face
Your happy carefree ways
The smile that won so many friends-
In those happy bygone days.
One of the best the world could hold
A cherished smile and a heart of gold
Always so good, unselfish and kind-
You left wonderful memories behind
Deep in our hearts your memory is kept

MAGNIFICENT MASCOTS

Submitted by Laurie Blanchard Salisbury, NB

In years gone by, hood mascots, commonly referred to as hood ornaments, graced the engine bonnets of many automobiles. From their first appearance in 1913 on the Rolls Royce silver cloud which featured the flying lady to the ubiquitous Pontiac Chieftan mascot. Some mascots were attached to the radiator cap rather than on the hood and came as standard equipment where as custom made ornaments could be purchased in the automotive aftermarket. They were manufactured from different alloys such as white metal, aluminum, chrome plated steel and some were even offered with gold plating at a premium price. A few came with a light that lit when the headlights were turned on. Humber, Packard, Buick, Oldsmobile and Pontiac featured mascots with lights. There were mascots that were artfully designed to highlight the luxury status of some very expensive motor cars. They spoke the words LOOK AT ME . I AM KING OF THE ROAD !!

The Doctor Game
W. Gifford-Jones M.D.

Will A Drink a Day Keep the Doctor Away?

We've been told for years that a nutritious apple a day helps to keep the doctor away. But could alcohol have the same result during this holiday season and the New Year? Or, is alcohol a wolf in sheep's clothing, detrimental to our well-being?

I recently mentioned during a talk that I believed that alcohol in moderation was the best medicine ever invented. The audience responded with a big applause. But was it justified?

Critics damn alcohol because some people abuse it. I agree when people are killed by drunken drivers. But no one bans cars because some idiots cause needless deaths.

My research on alcohol dates back many years. Why? Because I've always enjoyed a moderate drink and wanted to know if it was evil or medicinal. In 1981, Dr. Arthur Klasky, chief of cardiology at the Kaiser Permanente Center in California, said, "There is no evidence that one or two drinks a day is harmful. There is fairly strong evidence that alcohol may decrease the chance of heart attack."

Dr Charles Hennekens at The Harvard Medical School agreed. He reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association that patients who consumed either 4 ounces of liquor, 12 ounces of wine or 40 ounces of beer or less a day had fewer coronary deaths than non-drinkers.

Another researcher, Dr Joseph Barboniak from the College of Medicine of Wisconsin, studied the coronary arteries of 2,000 patients. He concluded alcohol helps to clear the rust out of the heart's arteries.

I like to remember this study. Researchers collected 100 identical twins with only one major difference. One twin was a moderate drinker, the other a teetotaler and their health was followed for many years. Finally the project had to be discontinued. Why? Because all the non-drinkers had died!

But why is alcohol heart-healthy? Moderate amounts decrease the bad cholesterol and increase good cholesterol. Possibly more important, alcohol makes blood platelets, tiny particles that are part of the blood coagulation process, more slippery so they're less likely to form a fatal blood clot.

There are also over 20 world studies

RCMP and RCMP Foundation bring Kids, Cops and Computers to New Brunswick

The RCMP Foundation, together with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in New Brunswick, are pleased to announce a new partnership with HP Canada and the Merry Go Round Children's Foundation, with the launch of the Kids, Cops and Computers program in Petitcodiac, NB.

Kids, Cops & Computers (KCC) provides kids with the tools and skills they need to help them reach their academic and personal potential. By giving technology and internet access to kids who might otherwise go without, the program enables them to compete academically.

Through KCC, educators and police officers deliver programming that establishes healthy relationships with authority figures and encourages kids to positively impact their community.

On Friday, January 29th, 2016, 13 deserving grade 6 and 7 students from the Petitcodiac Boys and Girls Club will be welcomed into the program and presented with new laptops from HP Canada.

The RCMP Southeast District, Riverview detachment will participate in the program by teaching the students lessons covering a variety of topics related to technology, online safety and community citizenship. The students will agree to be good digital citizens and complete the requirements of the program.

KCC has been successfully run in the Greater Toronto area, in partnerships with the Toronto Police Service, for over 15 years. It's partnership with the RCMP Foundation and the RCMP is the first time the program has taken place outside of Toronto.

The RCMP Foundation launched its first KCC partnership with the RCMP in Brooks, Alberta in December 2015, and will also be launching in Moose Lake, Manitoba later this month.

The Petitcodiac KCC program launch will take place on Friday, January 29th at Petitcodiac Regional School, 1 Corey Ave at 6:00pm.

St. JOHN AMBULANCE ADULT Division 676 CLOSURE

It is with sincere regret and heavy hearts that we inform the general public that our St. John Ambulance Division, 676 Adult group has had to close due to various reasons. We have given 42 years of dedicated service to Petitediac and the surrounding area, both as an Ambulance service (1973 - 1995) and as a Community Services Unit covering events such as MX, Stocks, Hockey Tournaments, Fairs, Horse Shows, etc. Sadly, we will no longer be available to cover these community events. On a brighter note, the SJA Div 676 Youth/Junior Group (ages 8+) will still continue as long as there is an interest in the programme. They meet EVERY Wednesday from 6:30 pm - 8 pm (Sept - Jun - weather permitting), new members are welcome at any time and there is no joining or registration fees. Top 5 Tips for Creating Biodiversity in Your Yard

This past Christmas I made several insect hotels in my wood working shop for some of the special people on my gift list. They were received graciously and at the same time with the common query: "What IS it? What does an insect hotel do? What kind of insects will it attract? Are they all good for my garden?" Just when I thought I had covered the bases on this subject I came to the stark realization that we have a lot of work to do. Clearly this discussion has a long way to go. It started with concern about the decline in the honey bee population and has extended to the general concern shared by naturalists everywhere about the problems with our native population of pollinators.

We are no longer concerned exclusively with the decline of honey bees. Truth is, there are over 700 species of native bees (honey bees are not native) that serve as primary pollinators 'out there' in the natural environment, many of which you can attract to your yard with an insect hotel. In addition, there are thousands of other invertebrates that either pollinate over 30% of the plants that we rely on for food or are essential members of the web of insects that make up the whole show. It is complicated. But luckily I am here to boil this one down for you. Take a mid-winter moment to digest the following and you will be on your way to understanding the whole, big picture.

1. Understand the meaning of 'biodiversity'. The word comes from 'biological diversity'. WWF defines it as, "The term given to the variety of life on Earth. It is the variety within and between all species of plants, animals and micro-organisms and the ecosystems within which they live and interact." Biodiversity in your yard is represented by the range of naturally occurring plant, animal and insect life that exists in it. There is much that you can do to increase biodiversity, or the 'range' of life in your yard.

2. Plants – pack them in. However small your yard or balcony, do not underestimate the impact that you can have on the beneficial insect life in your neighbourhood by planting flowering plants. The longer each plant produces a flower and the more of them, the better. If you have a minimum of six hours of sunshine in your garden you are in luck. The varieties of plants available to you are nearly limitless. If you are dealing with shade you also have opportunities to plant flowering plants galore, but you will need to be more thoughtful about your plan. In either case place your plants densely to attract the maximum number of pollinators.

3. Extend the beginning and the end. Crocuses are terrific pollinator-magnets and they bloom in March. Same for hellebores, snowdrops, early iris and dandelions. Yes, you read right. If you are blessed with dandelions and view them as weeds, but want to add biodiversity to your yard, you no doubt have some conflicted feelings. Answer: let them bloom and then cut them down or dig them out. While blooming, they are visited by many beneficial insects. In the autumn there are many flowering plants that tolerate the early frosts while blooming, rudbeckia, Joe Pye weed, asters, mums and Japanese anemones to name a few.

4. Go Native. Or not. A recent study in England indicated that it is not important to a bug that a plant is native, as long as it produces a blossom that attracts them in the first place. According to the results of 'The Plants for Bugs Pollinator' research it is the diversity of plant material that attracts the maximum range of bug species, not whether they are native. To quote the study, "The value of a site can be maximized for pollinators by choosing plants from different regions of the world."

5. Add water and don't stir. The single most impactful feature that you can add to your garden or balcony where attracting pollinators is concerned is to add a still-water feature. A pond in the yard or a half-barrel on the balcony works just fine. When you add a water feature I can guarantee that you will discover wildlife in your yard that you have never seen before. As dragonflies, salamanders, frogs, toads, water beetles, amphibians, mammals and bugs discover your new drinking hole they will grow, thrive and breed. There is no downside. We are only beginning this discussion. I hope that you will stay tuned to my column for more as we explore the importance of creating biodiversity in our yards and gardens. As I look to the crystal ball I see the interest in attracting pollinators and creating biodiversity in Canadian gardens as growing steadily. Within a generation the average Canadian garden will have little to do with the plant collections and formal, clipped and manicured gardens made popular after the Second World War.

OBITUARIES

HICKS, LORNA H. – Lorna Hazel (Tingley) Hicks, 76, of Petitediac, passed away on Saturday, January 2, 2016 at the Moncton Hospital. Lorna was born in Petitediac to parents Hazel (Lounsbury) and Jack Tingley. She has two older brothers, Rupert and Gerald. Lorna graduated from Oulton Business College in 1957.

Lorna married her husband George Hicks on October 15, 1960. They moved to Toronto, Ontario, and began their life together. They returned home to Petitediac in 1971 and purchased what later became known as Hicks' Confectionary on Main Street. They sold the store in 1976 and moved to Queen Street, where both their girls grew up. Over the years, Lorna kept herself busy babysitting several neighbourhood children. One evening, a few boys showed up at her home wanting to know if Lorna would rent a room for them to have a teen dance. No one else would help them. That is when the concept for the Petitediac Boys and Girls Club was born: around Lorna's dining room table in 1983.
For over 30 years, Lorna Hicks made sure that the children and youth of Petitediac and surrounding areas were treated with respect; that they developed a sense of belonging at the Boys and Girls Club; and that they were encouraged and supported to be the best they could be.
Lorna's dream for youth to have a facility of their own was realized in 2013 with the opening of the Youth Cultural Center – The House – in the former RCMP building. The House was later renamed in November 2015 during a Recognition Event for Lorna to "The Lorna Hicks Youth Cultural House".
Lorna is sadly missed and will be lovingly remembered by her children Tambrie Hicks (Jeff Woodward) of Mount Hebron, and Shawnie Moss (Joey) of Petitediac; cherished grandchildren Bennett, Braxton, and Brielle Moss; special niece Debbie O'Neill (Gary) of Petitediac; brothers Rupert Tingley of Moncton and Gerald Tingley (Trallawny) of Havelock; and several nieces, nephews, and cousins. Lorna was predeceased by her loving and devoted husband George, who left us too soon in November 1999. She was also predeceased by an infant brother, Everett.
Arrangements were entrusted to the professional care of Armstrong's Funeral Home, 33 Russell Street, Petitediac, NB, where visitation was held on Monday, January 4, 2016 from 2-4 and 6-8 PM. The funeral service was held on Tuesday, January 5, 2016 at 11:00 AM from the Petitediac Baptist Church. Interment will take place at a later date in the Maplewood Cemetery. that show moderate drinkers live longer than teetotalers and those who abuse alcohol.

Other researchers disagree. They say the alcohol-coronary relationship is just another gimmick. In effect, it’s similar to theories suggesting that corn oil, brewer’s yeast and garlic are effective preventive measures.

Other critics contend that personality is more important than alcohol consumption. For instance, relaxed people have fewer heart attacks and they’re also moderate drinkers. On the other hand, type A individuals, who want to conquer the world, are often heavy drinkers.

What about those who have survived a heart attack? If this event destroyed a significant amount of cardiac muscle, then the pumping action of the heart has lost some strength. The last thing needed is the loss of more strength resulting in congestive heart failure.

Studies show too that excessive drinking does damage cardiac muscle. This is why drinking days should cease. Others suggest that if there are no symptoms of failure, “moderate” drinking is a reasonable option.

Sir William Osler counselled, “Alcohol is for the elderly what milk is for the young.” I say amen to that. I believe that the “Happy Hour” for seniors would provide more medicinal benefit than a cartload of pills.

So enjoy the holiday season. But never forget the tragedy of excessive indulgence.

Comedy at Large
by Laurie Blanchard Salisbury, NB

A door to door salesman made a call at a farmer's house. When the farmer answered the door, a pig with a wooden leg was laying on a mat in the entrance. The salesman inquired. sir, I've never seen anything like this, a pig with a wooden leg! The farmer said.. he is a very good pig. Twice he saved my life! Once, when I was sleeping at night, a fire started in the house and that pig ran up the steps, woke me up and I was able to use a fire extinguisher to put out the fire before it spread throughout the house. Then about one year later, I upset my John Deer tractor and was pinned underneath, not hurt but I couldn't get out. That pig ran over and dug out a narrow trench, enabling me to crawl out! The salesman asked inquisitively, what's with the wooden leg? The farmer replied, well boy howdy, being such a good pig I don't want to eat him all at once!
