Now that June is here, summer weather will come calling, with high temperatures followed, no doubt, and a lack of water. According to the North American Lawn Institute an 'average' sized suburban lawn produces enough oxygen to support a family of four. A lawn is a high functioning, living, breathing colony of oxygen-producing plants that are knit together to form a low-growing welcome mat to your home.

You can give your lawn a boost and help it do its job more efficiently by following these few simple steps:

1. Cut your lawn high. 6 to 8 cm will do the job. For generations we cut our lawns much shorter, not realizing that tall grass blades produce deeper roots that are more drought-tolerant. Also, the taller the grass blades the fewer the weeds as weed seeds are 'shaded out' by the grass before they get a chance to germinate.
2. Use a mulching mower. The cut grass blades are regurgitated up into the cutting chamber of the mower where they are re-cut before being thrust down into the root zone of the grass plants. As they decompose they add precious nitrogen to the soil: the element that grass plants crave the most.
3. Fertilize three times a year. Quality lawn fertilizer provides nutrients to the soil that are used by the grass plants to grow and thrive. Nitrogen is the primary ingredient in a spring/early summer application of fertilizer, and is always represented by the first number in the three number analysis on the bag.
4. Slow release nitrogen. The nitrogen that produces the best results in your lawn is most useful to it when it is released over an extended period of time. One of the most sophisticated forms of slow release nitrogen is sulphur-coated urea. It releases nitrogen to the root zone as rain falls, temperatures rise, and microbial activity occurs in the soil. Iron also plays a role, as it helps to produce green chlorophyll, deepening the colour and enhancing the appearance of your lawn.

5. Overseed. Spread triple mix or lawn soil over areas where bare patches occur and apply quality grass seed by hand at the rate of 500 grams per 40 sq meters. Rake smooth, step on it to bring the soil and seed in firm contact, and water well until the roots have taken firm hold. Remember that a thick lawn is your best defence against weeds.

6. Water less. As we approach the summer season, the temptation to get out the lawn sprinkler will pull at you. I urge you to hold off until there is a real need. A lawn will grow nicely without water for up to 7 days. If it hasn't rained for a week by all means give your lawn a drink and apply about 2 cm to make sure that it moves down to the root zone where it is really needed. Keep in mind that a lawn that is never watered will generally survive, though it will not thrive through a drought.

7. Don't water. If we get into a drought situation, forget about watering all together. Your lawn will stop growing and it may go brown, but for the most part it will be dormant, not dead. That is, unless the drought continues for 4 weeks or longer at which time my theory of 'dormant not dead' could prove erroneous. I argue that watering at that point is not going to solve the problem of dead grass.

If you do experience dead areas in your lawn this summer, plan on overseeding in mid August. By late September your grass will have revived and will be looking good again.

The Doctor Game W. Gifford-Jones M.D.

Boomers Now Know the Pain of Arthritis
Psst! Do you want a tip on how to make millions of dollars? Buy a company that sells painkillers. Why? Because the boomer generation is starting to hurt more with each passing year. And they expect effective relief from the agony of arthritis. What boomers want, they expect to get. But how successful will they be?

Several years ago, Dr. Nicholas Di Nubile, a Philadelphia orthopedic surgeon, added a new word to the English language, "Boomeritis". He said boomers were the first generation to become obsessed by exercise, and they are paying the price by becoming banged-up boomers.

Today, there are 76 million boomers in the U.S and six million in Canada. By pushing their bodies too hard they've developed bursitis, tendonitis, arthritic hips and knees and a host of other traumatic problems.

The generation following the boomers could benefit from a lesson from them, and from Aristotle, who, centuries ago, preached the value of moderation. But by keeping a stiff upper lip when intense exercise starts to hurt, today's determined health fanatics are on the road to eventual pain. I've yet to see a happy looking jogger. And the bandaged knee, elbow or wrist has become, for the boomer, a badge of honour.

So where will joggers and other banged-up baby boomers find relief? For some of their degenerative joints, deterioration has progressed so far that the only hope is a joint replacement. Other boomers may, with luck, ease the pain and reverse joint damage by lesser measures and more modest activity.

During an interview with Dr. Julian Whitaker, a California expert on natural remedies, he stressed the aim is to restore damaged cartilage. He says that boomers should take 2,500 milligrams (mg) of vitamin C daily which slows the development of osteoarthritis and eases pain. Vitamin C is needed to produce collagen, the major component of cartilage. Vitamin D3 400 international units (IU), Beta carotene 15,000 IU and natural vitamin E 800 IU are also helpful.

Whitaker adds that 1,500 mg of glucosamine daily in divided doses along with chondroitin sulfate helps to build new cartilage. Chondroitin sulfate, like glucosamine, is abundant in cartilage. It works by holding onto water which gives cartilage its cushioning effect and also inhibits enzymes that break down cartilage.

The Whitaker Wellness Center also uses a combination of acupuncture, chiropractic procedures and magnets to ease the pain of arthritis. In addition, a number of herbs are used such as Tumeric which promotes strong anti-inflammatory activity, along with ginger, the common cooking spice, and several other herbs.

A procedure called viscosupplementation is useful for some patients. Our joints contain synovial fluid to cushion the impact between bones. As we age this fluid is weakened but an injection of synovial-like fluid can ease pain for up to six months.

What about rub-on ointments to ease pain? One cream with a mile long name "Preferred Nutrition Celadrin Joint Care Relief Cream", is an effective, natural anti-inflammatory compound, a mix of esterified cetylated fatty acids, derived from bovine tallow oil. It works by adding oil to the cell membranes, restoring fluids and improving joint flexibility. In addition, fatty acid esters are combined with natural menthol to provide relief of pain in the joints and surrounding muscles.

What about the science behind Celadrin? A double blind study at the University of Connecticut evaluated the effect of Celadrin cream 30 minutes after it was applied. This revealed decreased pain within 10 minutes. Additional studies were done 30 days later after the cream had been used twice a day. This showed decreased pain and stiffness, better mobility, strength and balance.

Studies also show that Celadrin works similar to, but much more dramatically than, the essential fatty acids EPA and HDA derived from fish oils.

The suggested dosage is applied to the affected area three to four times a day. But the cream should not be applied to wounds or damaged skin.

Lastly, don't neglect to fight obesity. If you weigh 150 pounds, the pressure on the joints increases to 450 pounds on movement. When going down stairs, it reaches 900 pounds. Weight loss can also help to preserve the joint function of banged-up baby boomers.

3rd Annual Diamond Ring Dinner
Held at the Maritime Motorsports
Hall of Fame

We held our 3rd Annual Diamond Ring Dinner on April 26. It was a great success; we would like to send out a Special Thanks to all those who helped make this evening a success; selling tickets, collecting prizes, volunteering their time and a very SPECIAL THANK YOU to all who bought tickets for the evening. It would not have been possible with out you. It seemed that everyone who was present enjoyed themselves and were very pleased with the evening.

During the Mingle and Shop the ladies got a chance to check out the Vendor tables and get their lucky Passport signed. They had a chance to win one of the three baskets full of goodies.

After dinner the ladies enjoyed a Jockey Fashion Show put on by Leann Maye and Formal wear by Big Top French's. The MC - Melanie Wade and models did a wonderful job.

After the Fashion Show we began the draw for the Diamond Ring, with Rick Wood as the MC. The way it worked was the 1st ticket drawn was put into a glass container with the ring until all the tickets were drawn and that was the winner of the Diamond Ring, then every 5th ticket out won a prize and the last 7 tickets won a prize, then we revealed the name in the glass container.

The winners of the top 4 prizes were: Cathy McCabe - Queen size Duvet (Marilyn Pollock - BMO), Tina Rogers - 1 Free nite (Little River Lodge), Kristy Grant - 4 yds of mulch (Pallet Depot) also a Necklace & Earring set (Premiere Van Lines), Becky Nicholson - Diamond Ring (Inglis Jewellers)

Everyday People

Submitted by Sheila Boissonneault

On a winter's day in January eighty seven years ago Lena Steeves Clarke was born. Her father, Rotsford Alfred Steeves had to take the horse and sleigh and go down the valley two miles to the nearest telephone to call the doctor who came by horse and sleigh 18 miles from Pettitcodiac to deliver Lena Delia Beaman Steeve's baby. Lena Edna Pearl was the seventh child at that time.

In the spring of 1929, at a gathering of the clan at her grandfather's, Lena at two years and four months old wandered down to the bridge at the Little River. She was very tiny and it was very windy and while she looked down into the water the wind blew her over into the water. Its thought because she had so many clothes on that kept her above water; under the bridge she floated until her brother Fred went into the water, grabbed the hem of her dress and pulled her to the river bank.

One of her older cousins remarked, "It's kind a cold for a swim."

Len's father planted buckwheat in the spring on what they called "Buckwheat Hill". In the fall he would take the bags of buckwheat in the "Market Sled" with the team of horses and go to the Mill in Have-lock to have it ground into flour of which they made their pancakes in winter. Her mother made a big stack of pancakes every morning for breakfast, and they would have pancakes, leftover potatoes and fried pork for supper. Lena still has the spatula her mother used. A pig was killed every fall and with the rendered fat they would make doughnuts.

In the winter they had sauerkraut, made from cabbage and in bins in the cellar they stored potatoes and turnips. Hens provided eggs all year around. In the spring her mother made salad from dandelion leaves, until the lettuce was big enough. A mixture of cream, sugar, vinegar, salt and pepper was used on the salad, also the cucumbers and the mashed potatoes. When the new beans, peas, little carrots, and the new potatoes where ready they added cream, butter, salt and pepper to enjoy what they called Hodge Podge. They also had lots of biscuits with "West Indie molasses"; they used a gallon jug to get it from the big barrel at the store in Forest Glen.

Sometimes a young cow would be slaughtered giving them meat for the winter. When the salmon came up the river to spawn in the spring they would enjoy an occasional supper of fried salmon. Also they had trout in the spring.

Lena's father died of "Bronchial Pneumonia". He was 49 on the 16th of December and he died on the 20th. Her mum was 44 at the time, and Lena five.

At Christmas in 1933 Lena received her doll "Barbara Frances" in her stocking. Christmas 1935 she got a doll she named "Delia" and in 1936 a doll she called "Peggy Ann"

Christmas time the children for a treat got Kellogg's Corn Flakes and a stocking with an orange on the bottom, a little bag of candies, then in the middle a story book or a scribbler rolled up, and sticking out the top was a toy or something appropriate for their age.

Delia, Lena's oldest sister was her teacher in grades 3 to 5, ages 8 to 10. She was an excellent teacher, they always had fun at recess and lunch; and they had great Christmas concerts.

At 10 year old she got "Phyllis Audrey" for Christmas; the most beautiful doll she ever owned. Her mother took a pre-Christmas excursion to Boston and she brought the doll back with her; she hadn't gone to Boston since she was married.

Later Lena's mother took sick with kidney problems and needed an operation. Lena and her brother Robert went to live with Delia and her husband. Their mother got better and returned home in the spring; that fall the first grandson, and nephew was born.

Lena's mum died May 1945, Lena was 18 at the time. She enlisted in the women's Army Corps and went to Fredericton. She was discharged at the Demobilization in 1946. Not having the opportunity to finish High School, after she got out of the Army she went to Vocational School in Moncton, a school for ex-service personal. She got a Jr. Matriculation certificate and was able to enter St. Johns General Hospital School of Nursing and graduated in 1951. She joined the Army again, in the Medical Corps as 2nd Lt. Nursing Sister. She was discharged to be married. They had three children born to them in Tatamagouche NS. In 1958 she worked in The Jordan Memorial Sanatorium, in 1980 moved to Edmonton. In 1986 she retired from full time nursing and moved back to NB. She opened the Doll Museum, and closed it as a business in 1999.

Lena has traveled extensively. She has done 16 cruises; Three Caribbean, Three Mediterranean, and two Transatlantic. She has been to Northern Europe, Bermuda, Alaska, the Hawaiian Islands, The west Coast/Panama Canal twice and South America. Her last trip was to The Land of the Midnight Sun; up the coast of Norway to Cape North- then on to Spitzbergen...250 miles from the North Pole, on the QE11

Lena attends Merry Makers, Senior Clubs, Women's Institute, and Bowls three times a week during the season, and she attends all the seniors meetings and dinners in the community and the surrounding areas, and she is a member of the Legion. She is an avid gardener, scrabble player, card player, scrap booker, quilter and photographer.

Lena said that if anyone is interested in the Doll Museum they can give her a call for an appointment and she will take them through it; this will give you an opportunity to meet one of our area's remarkable "Everyday People". (Picture is Lena with sister Mary Ethel taken 16 Jan., 2014)

FRIDAY JUNE 13th THE DAY OF CARING

For the second year, Salisbury Elementary is inviting members of the community to visit or volunteer at our school's "Day of Caring" event to learn more about our "Sharing the Bounty Community Gardens" project, participate in fun garden activities, listen to live music and enjoy a BBQ. This event takes place on Friday, June 13th from 11:00am-1:00pm.

The elementary school has partnered with Salisbury Middle School, J.M.A. Armstrong High School, Salisbury Helping Hands, The United Way and the Village of Salisbury to create these community gardens located on the playgrounds of the elementary school. Five of the raised beds are also dedicated for use by interested community members. This year we will be adding a composting station and rain water collection system.

The students of all three community schools have benefited from these gardens. These gardens have provided opportunities to bring local seniors and volunteers together to teach traditional methods of processing, storing and preserving foods; host Stone Soup events; research about permaculture and experiment with hydroponic growing; write and read about the plant life cycle; measure and count; learn about healthy food choices; learn about soil health and practice life skills as well as providing a source of fresh produce for the students to eat and prepare. We are very grateful to all our supporters and volunteers who continue to help us build on our vision.

RICK'S RANT....*YOUR BEST RETURN ON YOUR OLD CAR

Now that "spring fever" is over and you found that "new-to-you" vehicle, it's time to get rid of last year's "winter-beater"..... Yes, it may not be looking its best, but don't just put an ad on Kijiji and hope to get a few bucks. Why not get more than you planned for a very minimal amount of dollars and very little elbow grease. When selling anything, you usually want the most you can get. Automobiles are the easiest item to get a few extra dollars for....a quick look at used car lots will verify this!!!! Are the cars they put on the lot "scuzz-buckets"? No, they usually look pretty good for their age.....

So, before putting that ad on Kijiji, or in the paper, or park it with a "For Sale" sign in the window, here are a few tips for getting top dollar. I've personally owned over 180 vehicles, and each time I sell one, this is what I do. And let it be known that I take my own advice very seriously.

First, gather up all important paperwork... the registration (current), insurance card (which shows it has been used to present), the safety inspection document, any work orders or parts receipts to, any valid warranty cards, and put these all in a large envelope or file folder. If there is a "wheel nut lock", put it in the cleaned out glove box with the factory owner's manual.

Secondly, clean the vehicle.....throw out the Tim's cups from the back seat, wipe down the interior, vacuum and clean the carpets as best as possible, and clean or replace the floor mats (less than $20 if you shop a bit). You know the possible buyer will hop into the driver's seat.... so make sure the steering wheel, shifter, controls, and gauges are clean to the touch, as well as both the inside and outside of the windshield. Next wash and wax....yes wax the exterior as best as possible. A $10 can of paste wax will go a long way, for presentation is everything!

Next are the mechanicals.... A $15 can of spray engine cleaner will do wonders under the hood. Follow the instructions on the can and you will be surprised! The buyer will start the car, so have it "warmed up" if possible, as you want it to come to life instantly. Maybe a minor tune-up should be considered? Have the keys ready, and show that all sets are included. Change the oil (a $30 cost) as clean oil should show on the dipstick. Make sure all lights work....often it's only a low cost bulb. The trunk must be empty, as they will want to look under the floor mat, and check the spare, and see the jack and tools. If you have spare parts that will be included, or a set of winter tires, put them out of sight and use them as a "bonus bargaining chip" during negotiations. "What they see is what they expect to get for the advertised price!"

If there are any known issues with the brakes, engine, transmission, etc, tell the person up front. If there is something seriously wrong with the vehicle, don't try to cover it up. Be truthful about its condition, and what it needs. Otherwise serious issues may arise later on, which could lead to a lawsuit due to misrepresentation of the vehicle's condition, especially if it's one of safety. Honesty is always the best policy! You wouldn't want to buy a vehicle that turned out to be a piece of junk, or unsafe, after it was described as a great investment, so why do it to someone else. The "Golden Rule" should take priority.... "Do unto others as you would have them do to you!"

So in conclusion, spend a few dollars to clean and detail, do minor repairs, and above all else, be honest in your dealings, and your wallet will thank you. And maybe the buyer will want the car you just purchased when it's ready to be sold!

Plan a Daycation "Your daycation is in your hands"

If you don't have the time or the money for vacation this summer, maybe you can spare a few hours for a daycation.

In today's economy, many families can't afford a staycation – a whole week of getting out and finding cool new things to do. But there's no need to be stressed and feel bad about your finances – take a DAYcation instead! What's a daycation? It's a one-day vacation! It doesn't have to cost much (in fact, it can be free) but it WILL get you in the right mood to celebrate time off, being together, and having fun. Along with saving money, you'll create family memories of a great day.

The most important things in planning a daycation are: completely unplugging (no electronic devices, games, ipads, etc. besides a camera you will want to capture some memories for the photo album) – you want to be doing this together and focusing on each other; ask all the members of your family what they want to do together; and appropriate fuel – have a large breakfast, pack a great picnic lunch, and plan on grilling something easy when you get home.

Each Month from June until October we will publish a spot close to our area to have a mini outing not to far away from home, we will try to stay in a 2hour radius or less.

First on the list for June : Kayak, canoe and bike rentals, Crooked Creek Adventures Riverside-Albert, NB, Canada

Looking for relaxation, adventure, or just want to explore at your own pace? Come and visit our little piece of paradise, you won't be disappointed! You can paddle along the extensive tributaries of the Shepody River System or bike the coastal dykes and abandoned rail lines of the Fundy Biosphere Reserve.

Explore the Caledonia highlands and visit some of our most scenic water falls. It's your adventure and we can help you make the most of it!

They operate seasonally from May – October within the Village of Riverside-Albert. Crooked Creek Adventures is conveniently located on route 114 between the Hopewell Rocks and Fundy National Park.

Join them at the creek for an adventure you sure won't forget!

Janna Lounsbury-Crowned Miss Maritime International 2014!

In our May edition of local news and views, our cover story was about Janna Lounsbury and her journey to the 2014 Miss Maritime International Pageant. We are pleased to announce that Janna was crowned Miss Maritime International 2014 on May 18, 2014 in Shediac New Brunswick. Here is her story.

When they announced my name, I can remember different emotions hitting me at once. Tears of joy started falling down my face as Former Miss Maritime Joline Boudreau placed a sash over me and a huge crown on my head. There I was standing in front of friends and family the New Miss Maritime International

I won an amazing scholarship that will help me when I go back to school. I also won Miss Talent 2014 with a monologue performance. I also won my entrance fee to Atlantic Canada's Top Model & Actor being held in November. I am so honored and proud to represent not only the Maritimes but my hometown of Petitcodiac. I had many people tell me I am a role model for girls, nothing can change that feeling. Knowing that I have and still am making a difference in people's lives is truly a rewarding feeling.

I will be attending as many events as I possibly can during my reign. I also looking forward to attending schools, boys and girls clubs, day cares etc... If you have an event you would like to attend or speak at, I would be more than happy to. Please email me at missmaritimeinternational2014@gmail.com. Some events I have already been invited to are Tim Horton's Camp Day, Petitcodiac/Salisbury Relay for Life, Shediac Lobster Festival, Salisbury Community Days and the W.C.A.Fair. I look forward to seeing you all at various events during the year.

I would like to send a big thank you to my fellow fireman for the lovely surprise they had for me during training and once again thank you to all my sponsors, without you none of this would of happened.

ELGIN ECO ASSOCIATION

The Elgin Eco Association is a very active community organization.

Everybody is very pleased with the accomplishments of our organization. It requires active and engaged members. We have many actives that require helping hands, if you can lend a hand by volunteering, don't hesitate to join us. We hope that some are able to lend a hand with our general operations, the weeding of the park garden, sign up your children for our Summer Program For Kids, assist us with our great bike race the first Saturday of October and enjoy all of our activities.

The SUMMER PROGRAM for kids is being planned as a mostly out of doors activity, however the WI Hall will be the place for them to work when the weather is really bad.

A BOOK NOOK is being created up stair at the WI Hall for use by the interested residence.

We have a shared responsibility with the WI to keep the Hall clean and ready for use.

Elgin is probably one of the most active communities and that is good for our health.

Every year, according to the law, we have to hold an annual general meeting of the EEA. This year it was held May 22nd at the Senior's Hall.

The following agenda was followed:
Reading of the annual minutes.
Short overview of the past year.

PowerPoint presentation with the most beautiful pictures of Elgin.

Overview of the coming Summer Program for Kids.

The official registration for the program. Parents or guardian must sign a consent form for the children.

Last but not least we have to hold our elections. Without a full board of directors we won't be able to function. Last but not least was our election of officers for the 2014 – 2015 year.

News From The Maritime Motorsports Hall Of Fame

GREG SEWART – competitor Stockcar Racing

Greg started his racing career in the pits turning wrenches for his brother Jim in 1974 and '75.

He purchased his first sportsman car form Jim in 1976. In his first race at Atlantic Speedway, Hammonds Plains, NS he won. For the next four years, the Sewart Brothers dominated the Sportsman division at Atlantic Speedway. Because of his success in the Sportsman, according to rules at the Atlantic Speedway, he had to move up to the Modified Division. Soon it was decided that the brothers would only field one car and that Greg would be the driver. Greg won the 1980 Modified Championship.

To quote a bit of an interview that was done back in 1995 with Greg – “I began racing in 1976 when I won my very first race. My father died in July that year in the stands while watching me and Jim race. I went on to win my first championship and took rookie of the year. I dedicated that year to him. Since then I’ve won over 100 feature races. I know he is still looking down on me, I guess that’s why I try to do my best – each and every race I am in.”

In 1982 Greg won the Late Model Championship at Onslow Speedway, NS, after winning 11 of the 13 Modified features. That feature win record stood until the track closed in the mid '90's.

Also in 1982, Greg tested his driving skills in Ontario, competing against the regions best drivers: Don Beiderman, Junior Hanley, Don Hawn, Bill Zardo to name a few. He raced at tracks in Delaware, Barrie, Flamboro and Sauble Beach. He finished the Ontario trip with several top 5 runs.

In 1983 he moved to the new MASCAR tour. They purchased a brand new race car, built by Blair Crookes of Crooks Racing. Greg enjoyed instant success as he won the first points championship and was named Most Popular Driver.

He won the MASCAR points Championship again in 1987, '92, '93 and '95.

In 83, 84 and 87 he beat out such racing names as Beiderman, Hanley, Rollie MacDonald, Frank Fraser and Caleb Dunn to win the prestigious Twin 100 International races at River Glade Speedway. Greg was MASCAR Driver of the Year in 1985 and 1992.

In 1989 he was the winner of the Halifax 300 at Scotia Speedworld. For most of the 300 laps, Greg ran nose to tail with fellow racers, Fraser and Beiderman with only inches between them.

Another Memorable experience was when Sewart Racing won the opportunity to represent Nova Scotia and wave the flag proudly at the 1989 Nashville 400. A race that brought together the best short track sanctioned associations in the United States. Gregs weekend ended with a bent car when a nudge from a fellow competitor in turn 4 put him in the wall during a qualifying heat.

Greg started the 1990's with a first in Maritime racing history. Sewart Racing put Greg in the winners circle at the inaugural Stockcar portion of the Moosehead Grand Prix, winding through the streets of Halifax, in 1991. This was an exciting moment, for both driver and crew, as they received their first taste of National recognition. He won the Moosehead Grand Prix again in '92 and '94

He raced at Oxford Plains Speedway in Maine in 1994, where he placed 2nd. He considers this accomplishment a career highlight. He started in 42nd place in a field of what was considered the “Best of the Best” from eastern Canada and the New England States. In the last several laps he was running in the top 5. He passed Mike Maietta Sr. and Mike Rowe to finish 2nd behind Canadian, Derek Lynch from Ontario. This was his largest take home pay, winning $13,000 in US funds.

Gregs racing career ended in 2002 after a very serious accident at the Oyster Bed Speedway. His career took him over a 28 year period. He had the support and dedication of many pitcrew and builders to help put him to the front.

I now ask Greg Sewart to come forward and be Inducted into the Maritime Motorsports Hall Of Fame.

Presenting the award is Ernie Ledwidge, a Maritime Motorsports Hall Of Fame Lifetime Member.

'I Don't Want a Tie This Year'
By : Bob Perks (Internet story)

I can't use another tie. Even if I could, I don't want one.

Go ahead ask me what I want for Father's Day. You won't want to hear it. You can't buy it in a store and it doesn't come in sizes. Oh God, please don't buy me socks either. A shirt just won't do. Here's the good news. What I want won't cost you a cent.

"What? I won't have to waste my money on the Old Man? Great! But wait a minute. There must be a catch. This sounds too good to be true. I remember one thing you taught me, "If it sounds too good...it must be." Or something like that.

Okay. Here it is. All I want for Father's Day is your time. No, not another drive-by greeting as you punch the clock upon arrival and conveniently have to leave in an hour.

Give me a day, even a half-day. Let's have lunch or go fishing. I don't want to go to the movies. I want to look at you. I want to laugh with you. I want to sit quietly and do nothing for no particularly good reason.

No, I'm not like other fathers. I don't do sports and a case of beer won't buy me off. I want you. I miss who you are and who we were. I want to get silly and roll down a hill. I want to talk about life and what you want from it. Ask me anything, I'll answer truly. Just give me the moment to hold onto once more.

I sit with the photo albums and thumb through decades of parties and magic captured in stillness. I touch your face at ten years old and hear you say, "I love you, daddy!" Say it again for me. I haven't changed that much. My heart will still skip a beat.

This picture was taken right after you came home from the hospital when you were sick. You were burning with such a fever, I can still feel the heat on my lips. You fell asleep on my chest and when the fever broke we both woke up drenched. I still want to kiss you on the forehead and tell you how much I love you. You're never too old to kiss your dad.

Here's the ticket for the Ninja Turtles show I took you to and a stub from your first dance. I have circus tickets from yesterdays gone by and two tokens from the arcade. Look here are the pictures from the Faith No More concert in Philadelphia. I was so out of place there, but I went.

Now I'm out of your life.

Oh, please don't buy me another card. Draw one by hand for me. I have files and boxes of pictures you drew, and I still have that handy trash bag you made for my car. I have that first work of art that I secretly bought at the art show that year and the first comic book you created too.

Come sit on the couch and play silly games, and bring over your Nintendo Wii. I just want a piece of what used to be. I just want some time with you.

I keep telling you guys that life is too short and time is so precious and fleeting. It seems like just yesterday I sat with my dad. Now it's been nine years since he died. I would give anything for one more meal on the deck with him, one more old story I heard a hundred times, and one more hug.

Yes...one more hug.

Look closely at me. I am getting older. Time will start flying by. They tell me that this is just a phase you'll go through. But I'm sorry I can't wait for that "moment too late." I don't want it to be a day years from now when you are both standing close by my hospital bed telling me how sorry you were for all the wasted time. I don't want to hear "Dad, I should have called. We were just so busy. You know I love you, don't you?" Then I'll have to say in some forgiving voice, "Oh that's okay, guys. I understand. Life is just that way."

I'm telling you now I won't understand, and I'd be lying to you. Whatever pain I may be in could not compare to the pain I have in my heart right now.

Please give me your time for Father's Day. I really don't need a tie.

Comedy at Large

by Laurie Blanchard Salisbury, NB

When on board the International Space Station, Canadian commander Chris Hatfield circled the earth every 90 minutes. Now there's a man who knows how to see the world ! No travel agency needed here.

On a couples telephone answering machine after they had just brought their first newborn child home from the hospital... Hi, your call is very important to us. You have reached the home of the 2 Bergers and, oh yes, one small fry! Hold the ketchup !

A paleontologist was telling his friend that they found dinosaur bones dating back three million and one year old. His friend commented, how can you be so precise as to date them right to one year ? Well, replied the paleontologist, when we found them they were three million years old, however, we found them one year ago. Nuff said !

A fella arrives home from work and asks his wife what's for supper? She replies...I made you a meat pie but the dog ate it! The hubby replies... too bad! With her hands on her hips and looking somewhat angry she says ...I spent hours cooking over a hot stove for you. Is that all you can say? He replies... I'll sure miss that dog!

Thought for the day

The last thing you want to hear on your flight is the stewardess asking... can anyone here fly a 747 ???

Congratulations and Best of Luck to the Graduates of 2014!

The high school graduation class of Petitediac Regional School put on an evening full of entertainment as one of their last big fundraisers. The Womanless pageant was a spectacular show full of many laughs, crazy dance moves, and six of the grad class's very own men, fighting for the first place prize. The Womanless Pageant was a huge success, attracting people from all over the community. The evening started off with introducing all of the participants. Nolan Alward, Jarrett Crossman, Kodi Didychuck, Jeremiah Branscombe, Jesse Murray and Adam Rourke, were the souls brave enough to get up on the stage and endure much embarrassment. The six contestants then went on to do a fashion show, sporting night attire, night gowns, beach wear, and an outfit of their choice. They also shared their secret talents that not many of us knew about beforehand. Jeremiah started the talent show off with dancing and lip syncing to the song "What does the fox say?", Jarrett showed off his dance moves to a collection of songs, Nolan did a hula and belly dance, Jesse surprised us with his awesome vocals and sang "Man I feel like a Woman" by Shania Twain, Kodi lit up with stage with an original glow dance, and Adam showed off his moves by strip dancing and he also involved a ribbon dance at the end. The group of boys then came together and pulled off a very well put together group dance which was choreographed by some of the girls from the graduation class. To top off this eventful night the contestants were put to the test by having to answer an impromptu question on the spot; their answers were very creative and original. Each contestant received an award that was unique, and fit their personality to a tee. The three major awards were awarded to Kodi Didychuck for second prince, Jeremiah Branscombe took the first prince, and Adam Rourke was crowned the king. The Womanless pageant was very well put together and each of the participants really stepped out of their comfort zones to put on the best show possible. A huge congratulation goes out to all of those who participated because everyone knows that it is not the easiest thing to get up and make a fool of yourself in front of hundreds of people.
