This potluck supper will be on Thursday December 3rd starting 6p.m in the Seniors Hall.

We look forward to meeting you. This should be a time to relax and enjoy after a busy year. On December there will be a cook and craft day held for the children. This will be held on December 5th starting at 10 a.m if enough participants.

Location to be determined .

Members free
non-members $5.

To register call Donna Rosehart 756-3560
or Moranda 756-2518

Elgin Women's Institute

Members of the Elgin W.I. met at the Seniors' Centre for their November 19th meeting. After anthems and Mary Stewart's collect, nine members and one guest answered roll call. Who knew that besides being World Vegan Month, November is also renowned for World Toilet Day? This newly acquired information flushed out some interesting pictures including an outhouse being airlifted from VanGeest's farm. Where is it now?

More serious business included approval for annual donations, and in appreciation for their work, plans to serve a Christmas-themed lunch to our volunteer fire department at their monthly meeting on December 8th.

Our Elgin W.I. Christmas party will take place on Wednesday, December 16th: a potluck dinner at the McLean's in Members from the 639 F.P. MacLaren Air Cadets Squadron laid crosses and wreaths at Cenotaph in Petitediac for the Remembrance day Services on November 11, 2015.

Pleasant Vale. A new and possibly glamorous twist this year will be a "dress" code, glitz optional. We've already placed orders for a calm, clear evening unlike last year's snow follies.

In her role as agriculture convenor, Zahera Denath presented a program on Herbalism complete with score sheets on "Discovering Your Personal Constitution," "Current Energetics," and an easy-to-consult "Taste of Herbs" flavor wheel. To wake up our taste buds, she served ginger tea and chia seed pudding with cardamom. Thanks, Zahera for this most recent and enlightening report.

The evening closed with more dessert -- cranberry and orange coffee cake -- served by Hazelanna Carter. Delicious!

Merry Christmas and Happy Holidays to Everyone!
May the New Year Be One of Goodwill and Kindness.

Elgin W.I. Members Attend Fall Representation Meeting

Some members attended the W.I. tea held at Shepody N.B.

The following exhibits for 2016 are:

1. Knitted Chemo cap
2. Brown sugar fudge
3. Christmas decoration made out of recycled materials.

Each Branch was asked to submit the name of a member from their Branch to fill an Executive position for the Petitediac District.

There are still some cookbooks for sale. Scholarship Committee Dawn Kolter, Joan Richardson, Blanche Prince.

Auditors Barb Ayer, Verna Perry.

Some members paid their per Capita tax. The 2016 Convention will be in Corn Hill or Havelock. Donna Keith presented Blanche Prince with a gift of thanks for serving 3 years on the Executive and Bus tours.

Helen Clark is in charge of the sign "A W.I. Member Lives Here", more information will be known later.

Visitation of Branches names were drawn. The sale table was a success.

Meeting closed by Adjournment.

Everyday People

Submitted by Sheila Boissonneault

Part 1

This story is about the Mary Crisp Orphanage, compiled of information given to me by Doug Sentell a resident of Salisbury. Doug spent some time at "Aunt Mary's Orphanage" his orphanage name was Douglas Peter Brown; he was there from 1937 to 1942; and his hope is that he may get to communicate with anyone who may have lived there also during those years.

Doug doesn't know who his biological mother was, but she may have been a "Richard" Rumor has it that that shortly after his arrival at the home a priest came and removed a number of his siblings, but he remained behind. He thinks that was because the older girls enjoyed looking after him, for he was but a baby, that they hid him when the others were being taken away.

Aunt Mary, a Miss Mary Crisp was the daughter of a United Church Minister Rev. James Crisp, she was the eldest of five children. The family moved to Salisbury and the Rev. Crisp took up duties as the pastor of the village's United Church. Mary was nine years old when her mother died so she took on the responsibility of caring for her younger brothers and sisters. While doing this she also continued her studies, completing public school and enrolling in the provincial teacher's college, then called normal school in Fredericton she lead the province in her final teacher's college exams. She taught in various communities in the provinces where her father pastored, including Albert Mines in Albert County. When her brothers and sisters no longer needed her care she moved to western Canada where she taught a number of years in Saskatchewan. She returned to New Brunswick in 1918 where she decided to set up a foster home for children. A newspaper reporter quoted her as saying... "I was brought up in a minister's home where we were taught to be good but where we didn't know what it was to be free... I always felt that children could be taught and yet, at the same time to be happy; I felt that the time had come to put my theories to the test." At the age of 46 Mary Crisp brought a section of land from her father west of the village of Salisbury on the Regal Road; she had a two story, 14 room house built on it. The original house is located at civic number 13 Regal Road.

In an article written by Aida McAnn it was described as a neat brown cottage, separated by beds of marigolds from a clipped lawn, with clusters of white birches and clumps of tall dark spruces out in front."

Miss Crisp told Aida McAnn, "We're very happy here; I don't want the children running to the village so we have every possible activity here. For instance they have built a camp, they did it themselves and right now we are planning an all day picnic there."

She went on to tell Miss McAnn, "In the fall and winter we spread a big rug down in front of the fireplace and tell stories and toast marshmallows". Miss McAnn asked her how she managed to do all she does. She answered, "We live on our faith, we have often been down to very little and just at the most hopeless moment, provision has always been made for us."

In the beginnings of her Home she took in two children through a friend who was a matron of an orphanage in Nova Scotia; of which one returned later to help that matron. A man whose wife died asked her to care for his three small children; her family remained four for a number of years. Then the numbers grew, children from broken homes in one way or another, some the mother died, some the father and at times both parents; other cases the parents separated.

Within 10 years Miss Mary Crisp's home housed more than 60 children. Some stayed only a short while others stayed under her care until they were able to make their own way in the world. Some went back to reunite with their parents and some were adopted into new homes.

In 1934 Miss Crisp had 21 children under her care; some of the parents contributed what they could to assist in caring for the youngsters and people in the community and surrounding area chipped in with food and clothing. In later years the family allowance cheques helped, but a lack of birth certificates in a number of cases cut the amount received.

For a while she employed help with the household chores but later managed herself with the help of the older children, a Mrs. McDonald, who was one of the first four children "Miss Crisp" cared for, recalls that all the older children pitched in and helped with work around the house. Neighbours also offered assistance when they could: one Christmas morning they found a calf tied to the barn, a present from an anonymous contributor. Miss Crisp who also studied music at Mount Allison University, playing both the piano and violin, often entertained the children during the evening's song-fests involving the entire family.

The winter of 1934-35 school officials in Salisbury decided that because most of Miss Crisp's school aged children were originally from outside the district and therefore should pay tuition to attend the school in the village. Finding money for tuition was practically impossible so Miss Crisp set up school in her own home, even making several of the desks herself. The following year the students were allowed to attend school in Salisbury.

This is an up to date photo of the Mary Crisp Home, it stills brings back many memories to Doug Sentell. Next month we will hear some of his memories,

Seasonal Decor Harvest

"Tis the Season" and the very first thing that we do to celebrate the upcoming Christmas-time is festoon the front entrance to the house with seasonal greenery.

Here are some options that do not require you to visit your local retailer. Some of these ideas provide an opportunity for you to get out of doors and give your garden one last inspection before winter really sets in. Make sure that you have hilled up your roses. Wrap your cedars and other evergreens to protect them for winter in two layers of burlap. And put a spiral collar around the trunk of each young fruit tree in your yard to avoid rodent damage.

1. Evergreen greens. They are called 'evergreen' for a reason. The coniferous trees and shrubs around your property provide lots of opportunities for you to 'spruce' (intentional pun) up your front entrance. Pruning a 'Christmas tree' shaped tree to harvest some greens is not difficult, if you have the right tools. A pruning saw and pair of loppers is in order. Make sure that they are clean and sharp. Take the boughs from the lower portion of the tree and remove more than you think you will need. A long branch of evergreen stems may provide several stems of greens that you can tuck into window boxes and hanging baskets full of soil, where they will freeze into place in a couple of weeks. Note that for every branch or limb that you cut from a maturing tree new growth will eventually form. This will take time, but your evergreen will thicken in two or three years.

Avoid cutting great swathes of branches from a well-balanced, great looking tree or you will succeed in creating holes in the foliage that will look odd, at best.

'Soft' evergreens, which are sometime referred to as 'broadleaved evergreens' like yews, boxwood and evergreen holly can be harvested too. Pruning the mature growth from the bottom of each plant is your best bet to preserve the appearance and shape of each plant.

It is not harmful to evergreens to be pruned this time of year, so go for it.

2. Rose Hips. The roses on your neighbours vine are his, so leave them alone. Take a good look at the finished flowers on your own plants and inspect them for mature rose hips, the red/orange swollen seed pods on the plant. These can provide an interesting addition to your outdoor display. Rose hips make a colourful addition to a centre piece indoors too.

3. Ornamental grasses. If you allow your ornamental grasses to stand over the winter, you have a great opportunity to create some visual drama at your front door. Cut them at the ground level so that you don't leave an unsightly stem standing in your garden and harvest from the outside of the plant, to help retain a balanced appearance to the remainder of the plant that stands in your garden. Use the cuttings in the centre of urns and large pots and surround the tall grasses with evergreen boughs. The idea is to create a welcoming entrance to your residence at a time of year when you want invited guests to feel at home.

4. Colourful shrub cuttings. Red and yellow twig dogwood and white birch can add a lot to a seasonal display. I am not advocating that you raid the local swamp or conservation area for this stuff, but the truth is many farmers consider the native, red osier dogwood to be a weed. If you were to cut some of them down in an effort to create a nice display at your home many land owners would be quite happy for your efforts. I recommend that you ask, just the same.

5. Fruit and seeds. Pine and spruce cones, chestnuts, Mountain Ash seed clusters – have a look around your neighbourhood and you might be surprised at what you find. Again, I am not advocating that you poach the neighbourhood of excess plant parts, but let's be honest, if you pick up some chestnuts from the ground in your local park, who would really care, other than a few squirrels? Cone-fruits like those harvested from spruce and pine trees will expand when you bring them indoors to dry out. A bowl of them, in a variety of sizes, can be quite appealing on the dinner table. When you have completed your exploration for raw material, don't hesitate to let your creative juices flow. I dropped by a friend's place the other day to find the man of the house happily cutting up long stems of evergreen and shoving them into urns for the front of the house. This is not a 'guy' thing or a 'girl' thing. It is not even a 'Christmas' thing. It should simply be a 'fun' thing.

WANT TO MAKE A REAL DIFFERENCE FOR A REFUGEE FAMILY?

Various churches in our greater rural community are combining their efforts in the love of Jesus Christ who loves us despite our weaknesses.

Are you concerned about the horrible events happening in the news in Syria and Iraq? Since 2011, 5-million refugees have been displaced. More than 75% are women and children. These vulnerable families are so desperate that they are even risking their families' lives to try to find safety.

The Full Gospel Assembly of Killams Mills, First North River Baptist, Havelock Baptist, Petitcodiac Baptist and Petitcodiac Mennonite churches (and possibly others) are working together to reach out and help one of these desperate families find the safety, peace and love that we all enjoy everyday in this country.

We are planning to bring in a family of 4 by the Spring, costing approximately $20,000 ($30,000 minus government allowances of about $10,000) to set up and establish for 12 months.

Will you join us in this act of love? As we approach the Christmas season and the end of the tax year, would you consider reaching out in love to a family that really needs your help? If so, please make a charitable cash or cheque donation to Refugee Ministry Support c/o First North River Baptist Church, attn. Stephen Wheaton at 573 Blakney Road, Fawcett Hill, N.B. E4Z 2V6. If any questions, please contact Chairperson Rev. Jarvis Lepper at 534-2443 or jarvis.lepper@gmail.com.

God bless you as you bless those who need you now!

"Truly I tell you, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers and sisters of mine, you did for me (Jesus)" (Matthew 25:40).

Memorial

So many things of mom I miss
Her gentle hug and tender kiss
I still can feel her warm embrace
And yet picture her loving face

A mother's work is never done
And heaven must have needed one
For Angel's came and took her hand
And led her to God's promised land

She's surely kept quite busy there
Brushing little Angel's hair
Although there's sadness, this I know
She's waiting there, her face aglow

I close my eyes and I can see
Her arms still open wide for me

We love and miss you Mom
Jody, Jolene, and families

Your presence I miss
Your memory I treasure
Loving you always Forgetting you never

In loving memory of my wife, Sherry

OBITUARIES

It is with great sadness that we announce the passing of Doris "Dot" (Nuttall) Ewart, age 91, of Salisbury, NB, on November 12, 2015. Born in St. Helier, Jersey, British Channel Islands, she was the only child of the late George and Rosetta

(Cox) Nuttall. As a schoolgirl, she studied ballet and worked as a model. She also developed a life-long love of the outdoors, animals and gardening along with keen interests in music, literature and history. She endured the occupation of Jersey during the Second World War and her vivid, fascinating, often sad and occasionally harrowing accounts of those years were an education without equal for all who had the privilege of hearing them. Following the war's end, she completed her nursing studies in London, England and immigrated to Canada in 1956 with her first husband, Dr. Iain MacLean. They practiced in Tilt Cove, Newfoundland for a year before moving to St. Peter's, Cape Breton. After Iain passed away, she married Harry Paul Ewart and settled in New Brunswick. Following his passing, she moved her family to Salisbury in 1970. In Salisbury, Dot was a long-time volunteer with the St. John Ambulance and she was active in both the choir and the prayer group at St. John's Anglican Church. She provided childcare and pet care for many families in the area over the years. She was always quick to assist others in times of crisis: she passed no judgement and asked no questions, but provided an open door, a friendly cup of tea and a place to stay when needed. ## Comedy at Large by Laurie Blanchard Salisbury, NB

On their wedding day in early December, the roads were very treacherous from a freezing rain event overnight. The groom's brother and his wife, along with their three boys age 6, 7, and 10 were travelling just over 100 kilometers to get to the church and it was very slow driving due to slippery roads. To pass the time away, the three boys decided to count how many vehicles had ended up off the road and into the ditch. They were only about 10 kms away from the church and the boys had already counted 23 cars. Suddenly, their car came around a sharp turn, lost control and went off the road. After a few moments of stunned silence and realizing that no one was hurt, the oldest boy spoke up and announced .....24 !

A man and his wife travelling to Ontario to visit relatives during the Christmas holidays, decided to stop at a rural restaurant to do supper. In front of the restaurant were 2 twenty foot tall blue spruce trees loaded from top to bottom with hundreds of lights ! When the waitress brought the menu, the man commented to her ....wow, those trees are so beautiful. It must be very time consuming to light up such big trees! The waitress shrugged her shoulders and calmly replied....oh no, not at all. We just plug them in.

An officer at a Police Training Academy asked a recruit ...what would you do if you were on a back country road and were being pursued by 4 armed gangsters with AK-47 assault rifles in a car doing 100 kms per hour? The recruit replied .... I'd do 110 !

A limerick from a lady whose husband was a bathroom reader ....

It's addictive, I've heard,
but to take quite this long is absurd.
He's been locked in the john
Since before August one
And now it's November the third

Thought for the day ....

It's pretty scary when you start making the same noises as your coffee maker !
hmmm.....may be good grounds to go for a check-out ? pun intended.
