

It was a Mystery!

December 9th & 10th in the am arrived a tour buss, loaded with 55 people each day - all from Nancy's Tours, Sussex. They were on a Mystery Tour.

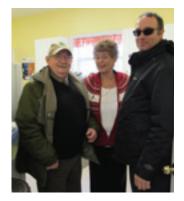

They each gave a can of vegetables for our food bank - its' a time of caring and sharing.

They were welcomed by Shirley Murphy of SPOT on both days with councillor Danny Pollock on December 9 and by Laurie Stewart and Mayor Gerald Gogan on December 10, bringing greetings on behalf of the Village of Petitcodiac.

They enjoyed hot apple cider and cookies. Tours were given by volunteers and shopping enjoyed by all.

The folks were from Saint John, Hampton, Sussex, Havelock, Salisbury and Moncton and all points in between. We thank Nancy and Jason for the wonderful opportunity to show off our beautiful facility. We say "Stop and Shop" anytime.

Wishing you all a joyous Christmas Season and Health & Happiness in 2017

The Management and Staff of the Local News & Views and Maritime Motorsports Hall of Fame would like to wish everyone a very Happy and Prosperous New Year!

From the Echtor

January 2017!

As I look back over the 2016 year, for me it has been a busy one. I am looking forward to this new year to slow down and get organized in our new place. I am not making any New Year resolutions. I am just going to go with the flow.

A few things planned at the Maritime Motorsports Hall of Fame this year: first is Chase the Ace each Friday night held at the Petitcodiac Legion; second the Side by Side dinner & draw on March 25th, also being held at the Petitcodiac Legion; third the annual Petty AutoFest Sunday June 4th at the Hall, 5 Hooper Lane; fourth our first Gulf Tournament August 18th, held at the Petitcodiac Gulf Club; fifth the 12th annual Induction Gala will be held on Prince Edward Island this year. Other events will be announced as they are organized. For information on any of these events please contact the office at 756-

I hope all your Christmas and New Year celebrations were exciting and fun!

Would like to hear from you about your events that are planned or that has happened, it is possible they could appear in the Local News & Views. Would also like to receive letters to the Editor. Wishing all my readers a Very Happy & Prosperous New Year!

TICKETS ON SALE NOW! 1 for $100 3 for $200

Description

Built on a smaller version of the Pioneer 700 frame, with a width of only 50-inches, the Pioneer 500 is light, nimble, maneuverable and can even be transported in the back of a full-sized pick-up truck. And with an ATV-style cargo rack, it offers maximum load versatility. Featuring 2-person seating, three-point Emergency Locking Retractor seat belts, steering wheel control and a sturdy Roll Over Protection Structure meeting OSHA standards, the newest member of the Pioneer family offers the ease-of-use and security features riders have come to expect from side-by-sides. The 500 even takes convenience a step further with an ingenious door / net / latch design which keeps safety netting attached and out of the way for one-step entry or exit. Powering the Pioneer 500 is Honda's proven 475 cc high-torque power plant that offers the efficiency of sideways mounting and an electric-shift five-speed gearbox with reverse, operated by steering-column mounted paddle-shifters providing seamless transitions between gears.

All the convenience of a side-by-side in a more manageable package, the Pioneer 500 provides the perfect balance between recreation and light utility. Pioneer 500 – the smaller alternative. Recommended for drivers 16 years of age and older.

A Bit About Our Canadian History as we near 150 years of confederation A Bit About Canada Continued

Missionaries: The Recoliets were the first to arrive in Canada; they had little success, as their strategy was ill received. They wanted the Natives to "first become humans" (that meant European) for them to move to farms, wear European clothes, and learn to speak French, this failed. In 1625 the Jesuits arrived with a completely different approach, they lived among the Natives and learned their ways and languages and converted them one by one. The history of the Jesuits is a long story in itself, about the work they did and suffering from the hands of the Iroquois. Dying for ones faith was an act of martyrdom. The Iroquois killed, by torture, no fewer than eight Jesuits. The Catholic Church has canonized all eight Canadian martyrs as 1621 King James VI of Scotland granted to a nobleman and poet William Alexander all of Acadia, what was once claimed by the French but an attack in 1613 by the English from Jamestown, Virginia, lead by Samuel Argall attacked Acadia, killing, burning the buildings and fields, taking prisoners back to Virginia. Their goal was to drive the French from the Bay of Fundy entirely and physically erase all traces of their claim to the area. Sir William promptly renamed it "New Scotland" (Nova Scotia) making him the first Nova Scotian. But in 1632 Acadia was handed back to France and the short-lived Scottish community was forced to disband.

In 1636 the Acadian Civil War began as a feud between competing French fur traders. Charles d'Aulnay inherited the rank of Governor of Acadia and built his fort near the original Port Royal, the thing was Acadia already had a governor, Charles La Tour, with his base across the Bay of Fundy at what is now Saint John city. The two trade zones were vague and overlapping. The La Tour/d'Aulnay civil war raged for the next five years. In the spring of 1645 d'Aulnay learned the La Tour was in Boston getting supplies and support so decided to make his move on Fort La Tour. He sent word to La Tours wife, Jacquelin, demanding her immediate and unconditional surrender. Jacquelin ran up the red flag indicating the was is on. The battle raged on for three days, and cannon fire rained down. When d'Aulnay's forces swarmed the fort they were met by fierce resistance and hand-to-hand combat, led by Jacquelin herself.

D'Aulnay fell back and asked for a truce. He gave his word that if she would surrender her men would not be harmed in any way. In the most underhanded betrayal in Canadian History d'Aulnay forced Jacquelin to watch, with a noose aroumd her neck, as he hanged her loyal men one b one. Then he threw her into prison where she died a few weeks later. Victory was his, d'Aulnay was now the undisputed Lord of Acadia. But this story does not end here. In 1650 d'Aulnay was traveling in a canoe that capsized and he died of cold and exhaustion. Charles La Tour returned to Acadia, and in a surprising manoeuvre he managed to talk d'Aulnay's widow into marrying him. The feud was over and the two sides, united by marriage, set about the task of rebuilding the devastated Acadian fur trade.

Gifts of Friendship and Laughter at Elgin W.I. Christmas Potluck

Another snowy evening, a picture-perfect setting at the vanGeest farm, and a bakers' dozen of cheerful celebrants were the winning "numbers" in this season's holiday potluck held on Thursday, December 15th. Moranda with help from Julie Kean Marks, Bonny Price and Hazelanna Carter welcomed members of the Elgin Women's Institute to our annual Christmas get-together.

Among many highlights was an impressive selection of entrees and desserts including the hostess's cherry cheesecake, and mulled apple cider. After supper, Julie led everyone in an enjoyable "get reacquainted" game (who could have guessed that Motorsports editor Winona enjoys working on cars)? Bonny would have her many craft-challenged charges assemble gift bags with sharp scissors -- of all things! It's safe to say there was some cutting up, and even more laughter when the Yankee swap got just a little out of hand: Zaheera's goat milk soap was highly popular, and Karen wished Denise better luck next year. In the meantime, Donna's daughter will surely enjoy her mittens. A fun touch this time was that all gifts were locally made including -- incredibly -- a Black Forest cake with all the fixings.

Congratulations to W.I. Member and E.E.A. President Moranda vanGeest for receiving the 2016 Molly Kool Award which recognizes outstanding community contributions. Zaheera Denath, Julie Kean Marks, Bonny Price and Denise Hopper received their W.I. pins -- a belated welcome to each of you! President Hazelanna Carter also presented Elsie Steeves with her fifty-year pin. Elsie joined Women's Institute in 1966, and reckoned she's been branch secretary for thirty of those fifty remarkable years. Our heartfelt thanks and congratulations, Elsie!

The Elgin Eco Association wishes everybody a Happy and Prosperous New Year. In the New year we will have our POT Luck Supper on January 5 in the Seniors building in Elgin.Our December pot luck was canceled because of weather condition and power outages. If you want to learn more about The Elgin Eco association come and join us and talk to members and have a good time. December is the month for proposal writing. Projects we intend to do in 2017 might be considered for grants. In the New year we are planning another winterfest and hopefully we can go snow shoeing on the Mapleton Acadian Trail. If the cold weather hold long enough our skating rink will hopefully be flooded.the weather has been very uncooperative for this activity in particular. We are also gearing up for a close working relationship with the Nature Trust.I will have more news on this in a later edition of the news paper. TheEEA

Time

By Gloria Scribner

They say that time is relevant To Earth or sky or space. It seems so fleeting here abouts And seldom leaves a trace Of shadows as they pass us On their way from here to there. But while they're on their journey Drop their silver in our hair.

Time is so illusive We can try to hold it still Or to live it with abandon While working with a will. But e'er the task is over Time has flown and day is done We've scarcely even finished The life we had begun.

If time could just be purchased And perhaps be stored away I'm sure we'd all be hoarding "Tomorrow and Today" And "Yesterdays" would never be For time could not run out And "Take your time" would be Another Holiday no doubt.

But time is oh so precious, for Life-times extract a fare So we must make the most of it Before it isn't there. So live and laugh and help each other It's a one-way plan No second chances down the road So love, while still you can.

We are pleased to announce that the Salisbury Big Stop Plans to re-establish the "Charity Table" to help support the various non-profit, community-assistant organizations within the greater Salisbury/Petitodiac areas.

To do this, we are setting aside a specific table at the Silver Fox Restaurant whereby 10% of the total sales from that table for a one-month period will be donated to the designated organization or club selected for that month. Along with this, a donation bottle will also be place at the counter to receive additional contributions if our customers so choose. This table will be reserved for a specific organization for a period of one month.

Our proposed schedule for the next seven months is as follows:

Nov. 2016 --- Salisbury Food Bank - (Helping Hands)

Dec. 2016 --- Petitcodiac Fire Fighters Association

Jan. 2017 --- Jordon Life Care Centre

Feb. 2017 --- Salisbury Fire Fighters Association

Mar. 2017 --- Petitcodiac Legion Branch #41

Apr. 2017 --- Salisbury Library

We would also ask that everyone get out to support the fund raisers for your local communities each month. They are all a very worth while causes, so again get out there to show your support.

Novembers charity table was for the Helping Hands Salisbury Food Bank we proudly donated $881.51 to this great local charity. Pictured is Tammy Constantine and Steve Lavoie.

Tammy told us that "this money will be used to help families in the Salisbury area over the Christmas holidays, thanks to the Salisbury Big Stop and the Silver Fox restaurant staff!"

A Bug Revolution

January 2016 column By Mark Cullen

Mark Cullen is an expert gardener, member of the Order of Canada, author and broadcaster. Get his free monthly newsletter at markcullen.com. Look for his new best seller, 'The New Canadian Garden' published by Dundurn Press. Follow him on Twitter @MarkCullen4 and Facebook.

In my most recent book The New Canadian Garden (http://markcullen.com/books-2/), I make the rather bold prediction that backyard insect hotels and native bee habitats will be as common in Canada in 20 years as bird feeders are now. Say, what?

The idea of attracting 'beneficials' to your yard and garden is an idea that caught on in Great Britain a generation ago. Here, we are only beginning to wake up to the merit of it. Truth is, this can be a lot of fun and kids love it too. Take this novel idea for a present, as an example.

Last year I made 8 of these insect hotels for friends and family. Some seemed genuinely pleased to contribute towards a more healthy level of biodiversity in their community while others gave me a look of utter astonishment, as to say, "Ok, now what do I do with THIS?"

There are no rules for building insect hotels. Here are some general guidelines that will help get you on your way:

1. Rot and decay are your friends. Forget everything that you ever learned about hygiene and cleanliness... you are striving to create the perfect environment for overwintering insects through complete imperfection. This requires some grubbing around in your yard. Rotten wood (but not too rotten), pine cones, shredded newspaper (but not my column - no - especially my column), straw and the mature seed heads of most any perennial work just fine.

2. Duff material. Under evergreens you will find small branches, decay and needles. Grab a few handfuls of this stuff as it has value to insects looking for a winter home. Come spring, some insects make love in your hotel and next thing you know there are little bugs running around your yard looking for a meal. This is a cyclical thing and it is all good.

3. Chicken wire or hardware cloth. Every hotel requires security measures. The big risk for insects that sequester in your new insect hotel are foraging birds. As much as I love songbirds, they are not at the bottom of the food chain. Rather, they are aggressive foragers and many of them love munching on insects. By sealing the duff material etc. behind a layer of chicken wire or hardware cloth you are providing security for the little creatures, where they can live and breed without something with a beak sticking it where it does not belong.

4. Drainage. You need to provide protection for the material that you put in your insect hotel. A roof overhead is a good idea and some drainage holes drilled in the base of the unit.

5. Mason bees. I always provide some tubes for mason bees to lay their eggs. They will do this a couple of times during the gardening season and often late in fall, where they overwinter until spring when they hatch and produce flying progenies. I have used bamboo for this purpose but make sure to smooth out the edges of the material at the entrance to the shoot. Or buy pre-made cardboard mason bee tubes that are the precise length, calliper and smoothness for the bees to lay their eggs.

Bumble bee habitat. Here is a quick guide to building your own bumble bee habitat.

You will need:

Clay pot at least 20 cm in diameter across the top

One clay tile or piece of slate 30 to 50 cm section of old garden hose Nesting material (e.g. duff material, pine cones, straw and/or shredded newspaper)

Enough chicken wire or hardware cloth to cover the top of the clay pot.

Now what?

a. Bend the chicken wire to fit the top of the pot, pulling excess wire over the outside edges.

b. Drill or punch drainage holes in the hose about 5 to 7 cm apart. The hose will provide drainage, which is necessary.

Dig a hole in the ground about the

c. Dig a hole in the ground about the same size as the top of the pot and about 3 cm deep. Bury the hose section, drainage

CANADA'S 150TH ANNIVERSARY OF CONFEDERATION

On CANADA'S 150TH ANNIVERSARY OF CONFEDERATION let's celebrate cities and communities — the places we call home — which make our country great! Canadian Heritage Minister, Mélanie Joly, invites all municipalities to name a representative to the Canada 150 Community Leaders network - a nation-wide network that will bring local voices to the celebrations throughout 2017 and Community leaders will be the voice of Canada 150 at local events and will also be a touch-point within their communities to share information on national events and celebrations. We will also work with Community Leaders to share their Canada 150 experiences on social media with images, stories and more.

Nominate your Community Leader today

Use the Recruitment Toolkit to help you identify your Community Leader and announce your participation.

You can nominate your Community Leader in several ways:

- Submit your nomination online
- Download a printable form
- Contact us at canada150@fcm.ca or

Once you have nominated your representative, you can also take advantage of a suite of free tools and resources to help you plan and implement local events and celebrations.

It's not too late to join the celebration. Together, this network of Community Leaders will amplify Canada 150 events and activities from coast to coast to

Celebrating Canada 150 in your community

Comedy at Large by Laurie Blanchard Salisbury, NB

Stand-up comedians often have to deal with hecklers in the audience. Most have snappy comebacks to utilize with such issues. Here are a few examples of how some comedians are quick to nullify unwanted comments. A comedian in Los Angeles was going about his routine on stage when a sarcastic comment sprang from a chap in the audience. The comedian snapped back Sir, exactly what is on your mind, if you'll excuse the exaggeration! Another comedian, who was accosted by a heckler replied ... Ah, it's so nice to see that you're back again but this time, in men's clothing. What a drag! One comedian, who was somewhat unimpressed by a comment from a gentleman in the audience, quickly shot backsave your breath sir, you'll need it to inflate your date later tonight! Now, on the other side of the coin, there was an author who was addressing his audience with a lecture on politics when he was rudely interrupted by a heckler who let out a loud hiss. The author gazed at the chap and announced....there are, as far as I know, three creatures on our planet that hiss. Number 1 a goose Number 2 a snake number 3 a fool. Would you please stand up so you may be identified?

A jury of 12 were on there way to the courtroom. Suddenly, the elevator malfunctioned and stopped between 2 floors. Are you ready for this? They were on their way to hear a case against the Otis Elevator Company. Yes indeed, jury duty can encompass it's Er... ups and downs!

Remembering "Auld Lang Syne"

By Gloria Scribner

As winter sets in, the bells of New Year's Day will fast become a memory. It's time to reflect on that grand old song of Robert Burns. It has brought more tears to the eye than any song ever written. In its lines, for a few celebratory moments, we see passing away forever all the treasured, regretted or memorable events of the past year. We visualize the "old man" with all our yesterdays slung over his back, trudging out of sight even as "Hope" flutters in on the wings of a half-naked cherub at exactly 12:00 midnight. Auld Lang Syne, I believe to be one of the most popular songs of any age. The one we love and hate. HATE it because of its 'beyond sad' notes and LOVE it because of the faces of yesterday it brings before us.

January celebrates the birth of one of Scotland's greatest poets and few of us it is who have no trace of the Scot in us. As for my own heritage, the "Littles" bequeathed to my family a breed of red-headed, hardworking Scottish ancestors. My great-grandmother Mary "Little" Budd bore 20 children to Elias. My grandfather Nelson was one of them. He was the first man I ever loved. His voice still rises above the squeak of his rocking chair and drifts out across my patch of Scotch blue-bells in summer. His once red hair had long since succumbed to silver threads among the gold before I came along, but his voice still carried a perfect tune at nearly 90. He sang the lyrics of old Scotland, and I confess "Just a Wee DochEndoris" was only on his lips if a glass of scotch was there first. (Harry Lauder had nothing on him.) "Comin' thro' the Rye" and "Afton Water" took us to a world his grand-kids could only imagine. When his family home burnt to the ground in the early 1900's he lost his beloved fiddle, but he could still sing, and sing he did.

As school children we were immersed in poetry and song from day one. The old "Silver Song" book taught us more about the world of Burns, Foster and others than the text books ever could. Among the branches of our family tree were the clan MacLean. Joyce Maclean taught me the "Highland Fling" long ago while in 1963 on Robert Burns day her dad "George" was toast-master at my wedding. No one was ever more proud of his Scottish heritage than Uncle George; when he was finally laid to rest in his kilt of MacLean tartan his family carried on the traditions of their Dad.

My memory takes me back to the Sunny Brae school and Gerald MacLean, (George's nephew) and his great talent in grade 5 of reciting Robbie Burn's poetry. I can hear his voice as clear as ever introducing us, and amazing the teacher with the perfect rendition of "For A' that and A' That". Gerry was often called upon to recite after that.

Jump ahead 60 years-my own winter tradition is to host our family's Christmas and New Year's dinners, a routine I treasure. But in 2014 I lost my youngest son and couldn't bear to celebrate without him. So I went to my son's in Alberta for the holidays. When I arrived home after New Year's, my daughter promptly asked "Mama, when can we all come to dinner? Since we didn't get to do it this year?" Whoops!? Wasn't that the reason I'd made my getaway?

Well, we decided the only day left in January to justify making pies was Robbie Burns Day. But I wasn't letting them off that easy. We announced the dinner, yes! Haggis and the dress code (no one admitted without tartan.) My son Heath was the D.J. and we had Harry Lauder and every other Scottish singer coming out of the woodwork. We played spoons and danced the Virginia Reel in the kitchen. My daughter Esther said that John Wayne said, "It originated in Scotland". In our family if John Wayne said it-it must be true. Each man had to read a Burns poem. Wow! Did they master their dialects! Such good sports! Rita MacNeilbro't us to tears and we sang all 6 verses of Auld Lang Syne. After blessing the Haggis, finishing off the apple-pie (not to forget the cider), we-from the youngest to the oldest-watched mesmerized in the parlour while Ashley MacIsaac's fiddle came "alive" in the most unbelievable magic since 'The Devil Went Down to Georgia'. It was a day to remember for "Auld Lang Syne", but as the last few notes of this old song die out, so our memories are put to rest, soon to be left behind as if covered in the mists of "Brigadoon". But for now "flow gently sweet Afton."

Do Not Take Liberties with the Gods, or Weary Them

The Doctor Game W. Gifford-Jones M.D.

Do you share my rage and depression this Christmas when you witness children being pulled out of the ruins of Aleppo, Syria? Surely, there must be a special hell for political leaders who let this happen. If it were their children, living in this rubble, would they take so long to end this human misery? Confucius cautioned in the Book of Rites, in 500 B.C., "Do not take liberties with the Gods, or weary them."This Christmas, the Gods must be getting very weary. So how are they rating the human species of this planet?

Let's start with politicians. This year, in Canada, there's been great debate about medical assistance in dying (MAID). Surveys have shown that the majority of citizens believe they should have a rightto choose how theydepart this world. But their government thinks otherwise, spending millions of dollars to conduct multiple studies, followed by a debate by legislators. I'm sure the Gods would shake their heads, wondering how lawmakers justify such ludicrous judgement.

For instance, the law allows a patient in the terminal stages of terminal cancer to have access to MAID. But, suppose you have early signs of Alzheimer's disease? You realize that your life will eventually become a living hell. So you decide to sign a document stating that when your brain ceases to function, you wish to end your life by MAID? Legislators say, "NO". An "Advance Directive" is not allowed. Why?

How do lawmakers expect a patient to apply for MAID when his or her brain has ceased to function? These elected officials are running our country! The Gods must wonder what other illogical pronouncements are set to follow.

The history of mankind proves the Gods must have been shaking their heads for a very long time, not only about politicians. What are they saying about my own profession? Surely it will fare better. After all, physicians claim to be dedicated to the relief of human suffering.

Yet, this year, some of my colleagues refused to assist in Medical Assistance in Dying. That has resulted in patients suffering terminal pain and agony while being transported many miles to a doctor willing to help end their lives. This attitude boggles my mind, and probably that of the Gods. How can a doctor turn a deaf ear to the pleas of someone dying from metastatic cancer, who has only has a few days to live? And some of these same physicians claim their decision is based on religious beliefs!

This year, the Gods must be particularly weary witnessing the epidemic of opioid drugs raging in North America. They must wonder why humans are determined to destroy their Godgiven miraculous bodies with reckless abandon.

In this joyous holiday season, the Gods must ponder why humans continue to be so inept. After all, the medical profession, lawmakers and religious leaders have had 2,000 years to find ways to prevent human misery. Yet year after year wars continue to occur. And while human problems remain unsolved, the species is adding another 110,000 beings to this small planet every day.I'm sure the Gods have already calculated how long it will take for human civilization to destroy itself. They must have concluded it won't be too long. The Gods know that the only thing humans learn from history is that they don't learn from history.

This is the 41st year I've written Christmas wishes to you, and have had the privilege of writing this column. So as I end this one, I wonder how the Gods have graded me! Have I done an adequate job of assessing medical information and passed its benefits along? Or, have I at times provided questionable advice to you?

As I enter my 94th year I know from longevity tables it will not be too long until the Gods give me a final grade. I can only hope that I have not taken too many liberties and wearied the Gods.

May you, my readers, all enjoy a happy and healthy holiday season.

Rural Rides

Do you live in the Lewis Mountain/Salisbury/Havelock area? Rural Rides is looking for volunteer drivers to help a single father transport his preschooler to Red Roof Day Care 3 mornings a week (Monday, Wednesday and Friday). Driver would pick up father and child and drop child off to preschool then take father home. At lunch time, driver would pick up father, then pick up child and return both to home.

New Year's Resolution to help people or volunteer? Rural Rides needs drivers in Salisbury, Petitcodiac and Havelock to help people get to medical appointments, grocery shopping and other life errands.

Please call Kelly at 215-2100 to find out how you can help.

Snowmobilers Tourism Weekend January 20, 21, 22, 2017

The weekend formally known as the "Free Trail Permit Weekend" is now being called the "Tourism Weekend". Beginning Friday January 20, till Sunday January 22, 2017, snowmobile visitors to New Brunswick can acquire a "Special no charge Permit", to ride any of the NBFSC's 8000 plus kilometers of trails, for these three days. The "no charge"

Weekend is only available to snowmobile tourists and visitors from Nova Scotia, PEI, Quebec, Ontario or the New England States, not residents of New Brunswick. While the cost of the normal, $80.00, 3-Day Trail Permit is being waived for this weekend, all snowmobiler's participating must display the no charge NBFSC Trail permit on the windshield of their snowmobile during these three days.

This "Special no charge Permit" can be printed off the website after filling in a very brief

registration form at www.nbfsc.com

The no charge 3-Day Trail Permits are only available from the NBFSC Website; they are not available at any other location in New Brunswick.

New Brunswick's Off Road Vehicle Enforcement teams will be participating all weekend also.

Everyone with a "Special no charge Permit" displayed will be waived through any check points and welcomed on all trails however other requirements of the Off Road vehicle Act will still be enforced. Therefore while you can acquire a no charge Trail Permit, all snowmobiles and snowmobilers on NBFSC trails are still required, under the Off Road Vehicle Act, to carry personal PLPD insurance ($200,000.00 minimum) and have a current snowmobile registration from your home Province or State for your ride.

We have no doubt that many of the regular and popular pit stops, hotels and lodges will fill up quickly so plan to reserve your favorite or new favorite place as soon as possible. You can check our website to review all of the NBFSC's Corporate Partners, many of the popular stops on the NBFSC trails
