Thank You, Terry, for 2100 little Valentines with Love

Terry Goggin's granddaughters, Jordan Eagles and Makayla Steeves, help pack up the latest donation of baby hats.

Everyday is Valentine's Day at the home of Terry Goggin in Elgin. Terry has just completed crocheting 2100 baby hats for the Moncton City Hospital. A few years ago, sitting at the Hospital bedside of a loved one, she felt inspired to make a difference in the lives of new mothers. These precious little hats are not just ordinary hats. The boy's hats have pompoms on top and the girl's have a flower or a heart crocheted on the side. They are each made with love.

Celebrating Women in Fundy Royal

On International Women's Day we celebrate the women who were trailblazers, women who are breaking stereotypes in industries such as STEM, business, and agriculture, and the young girls who will change the world.

We are creating an economy that works for everyone, because when women succeed, we all benefit.

From the Editor

Is everyone ready for Spring?

First of all I want to thank the good lady that helped me up off the sidewalk. I didn't even ask her name. THANK YOU! To everyone that was (is) concerned I am fine, just one major black eye.

February has been a hard month with the stormy weather, hoping for a better March.

In March there is the much looked forward to School Break.

The Annual Elgin Celebration of International Women's Day will be held on Saturday, March 9, 2019, from 1:00 to 4:00 pm at the Elgin Community Centre.

The clocks go forward on Sunday, March 10 at 2am.

Lounsbury's have their car sales here March 12th to 16th.

Have some fun on Saint Patrick's Day (March 17) wearing your green.

The JAM sessions in March are Friday, March 8th and 29th.

March is Red Cross Month and with all the help they provided after the floods in 2018 and already in 2019 it would be a good idea to make a donation to them, small or large. You never know when or where their services will be needed again.

We have the Side-by-Side draw and dinner March 23 at the Maritime Motorsports Hall Of Fame, 5 Hooper Lane; pick up your tickets at the Hall office.

A reminder: the nominations for the 2019 MMHF 14th Annual Induction must be in by April 1st.

Your editor,
Winona McLean

ELGIN NEWS!

Did you know?.....WI members belong to the same organization as Queen Elizabeth. The Queen joined the Sandringham Branch of Women's Institute in 1943 when she was still Princess Elizabeth and attends the January meeting every year.

"On January 24, Her Majesty joined her local branch at West Newton Village Hall, located near her Sandringham Estate. The Monarch enjoyed chatting with the local ladies over a cup of Yorkshire Blend Tea and gingerbread while participating in an educational program."

Women's Institute organization began in Canada in 1897 and spread to the UK and other parts of the world. The founder of WI movement was Adelaide Hoodless. The following is background information that saw a need for women to work together for "home and country".

"Adelaide (Hoodless) was born on an Ontario farm in 1867, the youngest of 12 children. Just eight months after her birth, her father died and her mother was left with the task of managing the farm and looking after children on her own.

Her mother showed great strength and determination, and Adelaide learned valuable life lessons through her mother's example. She went to college, married and started her family. Her life changed in 1889 when her youngest son died at the age of 14 months from drinking unpasteurized milk.

Adelaide then set out to ensure that women had the knowledge to prevent childhood deaths and began to dedicate her life to helping other women. She started the first Women's Institute group in Ontario and within 10 years there were more than 500 branches throughout Canada.

Adelaide was co-founder of the National Council of Women which meets with the Federal Cabinet to advocate for policies that affect Canadian families. As a co-founder of the Victorian Order of Nurses, she would be proud to know that the VON is a daily presence in the lives of many Canadians.

Adelaide was also the co-founder of the YWCA in Canada." (Yvonne Kennedy, Homeville, Cape Breton)

On the local level the WI can still provide valuable service to our communities. Please consider thinking about a concern or project that needs attention. We have a voice in the WI. Take advantage of this network of women to make a difference. Also, as part of our objectives in Elgin we aim to provide interesting programs such as soap making and seed saving and exchange, etc. Contact Hazelanna Carter, Pres. of Elgin WI for more information (756-2531).

International Women's Day celebration

Enjoyable day with a guest speaker, music, skit, games, food and fun

Where: Elgin Community Centre

When: March 9

Time: 1 till 4 pm.

This month and next month are going to be busy months for the Elgin Eco Association. Despite the weather, members make good use of the fat bikes. They say it is a joy to ride them through the woods in the winter. The winter tires on the fat bikes are an extra feature to make winter cycling possible. For inquiries to use the bikes, contact the Elgin Eco Association.

The Elgin Eats Beeswax event was very well attended. Many people are learning make and use the beeswax wraps. This is done as an alternative to plastic. One more session on pie making will be held on March 12 {see advertisement.}

And, on March 23 if there are still snow storms, we will do it on March 30. we will be hosting a "start your own seeds" event for the youngster in our area.

They will learn how to start / plant your own seeds. Make their own seed pots that can be planted directly into the ground. Seeds and soil will be provided. Kids might bring a tray to hold their pots. It will take place outdoors in the ECO PARK at 11 am. in Elgin.

Weather permitting, we will hold a Maple sugar camp working bee in March. You can contact us through Facebook, elgineco@hotmail.com or by phone 756 2518.

The Doctor Game W. Gifford-Jones M.D.

Will Dr. AI Eventually Be Your Family Physician?

How much will artificial intelligence (AI) play in the future when you require medical care? Today, millions are being spent to produce cars that drive by themselves. Will the same be spent on Dr. AI, your family doctor?

Ironically, this column wasn't triggered by reading a medical report. Rather, it originates from an article written by Matt Harrison, Contributing Editor of the Park Avenue Digest, an economic news publication.

Harrison writes that we're getting closer to seeing a robotic doctor than one would think. For instance, the Ichan School of Medicine at Mount Sinai in New York already has a robot able to pick up pneumonia in chest X-rays, with the final diagnosis made by a human doctor. But I wonder how long this will last?

Harrison adds that countries such as Switzerland are quickly adapting to AI. After all, robots have a flawless memory, never get tired, suffer from burnout, get ill, or need time off from work.

Moreover, today the volume of new medical information is huge. And anyone who believes a doctor can keep abreast of all this knowledge, as well as looking after a busy medical practice, is living in Disneyland.

But this advancement is not just happening in Switzerland. Robots have been sneaking into operating rooms here in North America without much fanfare. And I haven't heard any surgeons complain that their robotic assistant wasn't a great asset.

Not everyone is applauding this new intrusion into medical practice. Dr. Vanessa Rampton, at the McGill Institute for Health and Social Policy in Montreal, along with Professor Giatgen Spinaz, at the University Hospital in Zurich, Switzerland, claim it's a step in the wrong direction.

So, would I ever wish to be attended by Dr. AI? It depends on the circumstances. If I had a rare disease, and since no doctor knows everything, I'd be reassured if my doctor asked Dr. AI for an opinion.

But I do see a major problem. Many years ago a young mother, a patient of mine, was dying. Her nurse called to ask me if I could see her. When I arrived, she wondered if I would allow her to kiss me, as thanks for all the medical care I'd given her. I've never forgotten that tragic moment and never will. How would Dr. AI cope with this situation?

Medicine to me will always be a profession where great compassion is required of the doctor when patients face serious illness. So I hope we will never reach a point where robotic doctors become the only bedside attendant.

But it would be naïve and unrealistic to deny that Dr. AI will not have a major effect on medical practice. Since robots can assemble cars, surely they could take your blood pressure. In fact, their pressure gauge might even be more accurate. We've known for years that patients become tense when doctors appear in their white coats. This often triggers a false increase in BP (the white coat syndrome).

Today, a major problem is the short time doctors have during an office visit to resolve long-standing health issues. For instance, they would have to be magicians to quickly solve the problems facing an overweight patient, with hypertension and Type 2 diabetes.

But Dr. AI, working as a health care assistant, could discuss the Gifford-Jones Law that states that one serious problem leads to another and another. How this lifestyle problem, if not corrected, will lead to heart attack. And Dr. AI would never tire of repeating this message over and over to hundreds of patients.

Conventional medicine has brought us many great advantages. But it has also failed, otherwise we would not be in such a mess today, with people dying of diseases that should never happen.

Robots may be the very thing that doctors need. They could help busy doctors convince patients that in the past we died of infectious diseases. Now, it's a totally new ball game. We face an epidemic of degenerative lifestyle disease, the likes of which the world has never seen, and it's increasing every year. If unchecked, it will bring our health care system to its knees.

So, keep an open mind about robotic doctors. They could save us all from self-inflicted disease.

Agricultural Alliance of New Brunswick Campaign Launch News Release

February 12, 2019

Fredericton - The Agricultural Alliance of New Brunswick today launched a public campaign focused on educating New Brunswickers on the benefits of locally grown New Brunswick products. The campaign was developed by AANB with the support of Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada and the Province of New Brunswick under the Canadian Agricultural Partnership, as well as the Atlantic Canada Opportunities Agency (ACOA).

"We are very excited to launch our "Why Local? Why Not?" campaign today - Canada's Agriculture Day," says AANB President, Christian Michaud. "It's hoped this campaign will be embraced by New Brunswickers and will encourage them to better understand the many benefits of buying locally grown products."

The campaign is designed to address three main goals:

- To educate New Brunswickers on the benefits of locally grown products. It's about changing our buying and eating habits to consider more local.

- To increase the demand for NB farmer grown products to ensure that our farms and producers have a reason to produce more - looking at innovative and sustainable ways to make that happen.

- To change the perception of farming to ensure more young people are interested in looking at agriculture as a sustainable profession of the future.

"The Government of Canada is proud to support New Brunswick farmers through the Canadian Agricultural Partnership," said Agriculture and Agri-Food Minister Lawrence MacAulay. "Raising awareness and increasing demand for Canadian products is vitally important in that it supports farmers as they continue to grow, innovate and prosper."

"The Government of Canada, through ACOA, is pleased to support an awareness campaign that focuses on building resilient communities. The Why Local? Why Not? campaign will provide meaningful information to the community that will help local farmers grow their businesses, ensuring a thriving agricultural sector for years to come. New Brunswick farmers produce excellent food and we should all be proud to buy local," said Matt DeCoursey, Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister of Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship and Member of Parliament for Fredericton, on behalf of the Honourable Navdeep Bains, Minister of Innovation, Science and Economic Development and Minister responsible for ACOA.

ACOA approved a $35,655 contribution to the Agricultural Alliance of New Brunswick through its Business Development Program to help with the campaign.

"It's important that New Brunswickers understand and appreciate the benefits of buying locally-produced products," said Minister of Agriculture, Aquaculture and Fisheries, Ross Wetmore. "Doing so keeps our food buying dollars in the province and our farmers working for generations to come. This investment demonstrates our commitment to supporting the efforts of the Agricultural Alliance to promote local farming, local products and to encourage youth to consider farming as a career."

The campaign was developed following extensive engagement with New Brunswick farmers. They shared their ideas about what constitutes local, why local is important and why New Brunswickers should consider buying local whenever it makes sense. The campaign is also designed to complement and work with partner campaigns including buylocalnb.ca, excellenceNB.ca and buy.achetez.nb.ca.

The campaign highlights key benefits of buying NB farmer grown products and draws attention to the many career opportunities that agriculture can offer to young New Brunswickers. For more information, please visit www.whylocalwhynot.ca.

Fertilizer Demystified

By Mark and Ben Cullen

Mark Cullen is an expert gardener, author, broadcaster, tree advocate and Member of the Order of Canada. His son Ben is a fourth-generation urban gardener and graduate of University of Guelph and Dalhousie University in Halifax. Follow them at markcullen.com, @markcullengardening, on Facebook and bi-weekly on Global TV's National Morning Show.

There is a lot of noise about fertilizer and plant food out there and it can be confusing.

We are here to demystify the idea of "feeding your plants".

Do you need to fertilize?

Some plants are born hungry. Take roses for example. They thrive on well-drained, rich soil and perform best when they are fertilized in spring.

Many other plants do not need fertilizer. If your soil is rich in natural nutrients, and it contains loads of microbes and organic matter, the chances are you won't have to fertilize. Most of us do not have perfect soil, so the idea of fertilizing your hungry tomatoes, for instance, is a good one.

The formula

Every package of fertilizer sold in Canada has a three-number analysis printed on the package. The numbers always appear in the same order and express the percentage of each in the package: nitrogen, phosphorous and potash. These elements have been determined to be of greatest demand by plants.

What do they mean?

Nitrogen (N): promotes green vegetative, leaf growth. A spring lawn fertilizer like 18-0-8 is designed to produce a fast green up. Some fertilizers contain an ingredient that slows the release of the nitrogen over a long period of time. Plant Prod produces a popular fertilizer for hanging baskets, 16-16-16 with controlled release nitrogen. Apply once and you are done.

Phosphorous (P): Promotes root development and blossoms. Many fertilizer products for fruiting and flowering plants contain a high level of phosphorous. You will not find phosphorous in most lawn care products for environmental reasons: phosphorous or phosphates should not ever make their way into fresh water.

Potash (K): An enabler. Potash helps nitrogen and phosphorous do their jobs. Analysis has shown that this element is a general assist to all the elements that a plant requires to perform best.

Micro-nutrients

NPK, listed above, are the elements in highest demand by plants but they are not the only ones needed to encourage plant health. Micro-nutrients like boron, magnesium (found in Epsom salts) and iron are just three of many. Each provides its own list of benefits and a deficiency of any one of them can create maladies in plant health. A soil test will tell you if your soil is lacking in one of them. Soil test kits are sold at most garden retailers.

Chemical or natural?

Truth is, plants do not know the source of these basic nutrients. The mantra of organic gardeners is, "if you feed the soil, it will feed the plants". In other words, synthetic fertilizers (or "chemical" fertilizers) do nothing to enhance the character and value of soil. They merely sustain plant growth as the plant requirements demand it. If you only apply synthetic fertilizer to your lawn and garden plants, in time, the soil will be deficient in organic content that includes microbes, beneficial insects like earthworms and the micronutrients mentioned above.

We use copious quantities of compost each spring, to enhance the natural ingredients in the soil. Mark has a six cubic yard composting bin in his 10-acre garden. Ben trucks in a pick-up load of aged compost each season to his allotment garden.

When to use fertilizer?

As a rule, we use fertilizer or "plant food" when a plant demands it. Potted plants, including hanging baskets and window boxes, benefit from fertilizer as the soil mass that they grow in is limited, compared to those grown in the garden.

Lawns benefit from an early dose of quality lawn fertilizer, especially after a long, cold Canadian winter. Like a bear, grass plants crave the nitrogen and a dose of iron, which produces a very deep green. Some quality forms of iron can produce an almost "blue" green, like that of a golf green.

Plants with a low demand for fertilizer include most native plants, perennials and ornamental grasses.

Knowing what plants to feed, when and with what, will help lead you down a path of successful gardening this season.

A Loaf of Bread

By Gloria Scribner

I made a batch of bread today
 "So what?" you're thinking now
 Well, I was feeling down you see
 I'd cheer me up somehow
 I counted all my blessings
 And it seemed I couldn't see
 Why anyone should grumble
 If they were 'the likes of me'.
 I'm certainly not wealthy
 More like that "church-mouse" I guess
 But I have a million reasons
 Why I should be feeling blessed
 I have a loving Savior
 Who is my friend and guide
 And even when I wander
 He stays right by my side
 He's given me each breath I take
 And kept poor-health at bay
 So I can just appreciate
 The love that comes my way
 He gives me hope when I am down
 And always reassures
 And He'll be my encourager
 As long as life endures
 He keeps my cupboards filled
 And all my clothes are good and warm
 I have a roof to shelter me
 And hide me from the storm
 I have a family I adore
 My heart can scarce contain
 The times he has reminded me
 Of all of them again
 So baking bread reminds me
 Of the times we shared our meals
 And I know that He understands
 Just how this mother feels
 You see, He shared a loaf of bread
 One evening 'with the guys'
 And one day shared a picnic
 Everybody was surprised
 For when His hands had broken bread
 He'd fed 5000 folks
 And a loaf of bread reminds me
 Of those hands I love the most
 And oh! The sweet aroma
 Of a loaf of bread that's hot
 So if you'd like to join me
 I'll put on the coffee pot.

From the Desk of Your MLA

Hon. Ross Wetmore, Gagetown - Petitcodiac

Since our last communication there has been a split-decision on whether we will have an early spring by eastern North America's most experienced groundhogs; from Punxsatawney Pennsylvania through Wiarton Ontario to Shubenacadie Nova Scotia. Wiarton Willie has forecast an early spring, a prediction contradicted by Shubenacadie Sam.

The elder statesman, Punxsatawney Phil says it will be an early spring. It's only the 19th time in the past 133 years that Phil has predicted an early spring outcome. What I have been unable to research is whether Phil was correct on the previous 18 occasions he called for an early end to winter. We can rest assured that spring will come in its own good time. While we are predicting things, I predict on March 19th, a responsible budget will be brought forward by Finance Minister Ernie Steeves. My colleague has been working very hard and gathering advice and opinion from as many New Brunswickers as possible.

Our government is committed to getting better results for the people of our province and to getting full-value from every hard-earned tax dollar.

Our challenges in health care, education, social development, transportation assets and more are well-chronicled. We know where the problems are; our job is to develop solutions.

Premier Blaine Higgs has been tireless in his efforts here at home and across Canada to bring more prosperity to New Brunswickers and to fight the carbon tax.

In mid-February he joined Saskatchewan Premier Scott Moe, federal Conservative leader Andrew Scheer and many more to promote the Energy East pipeline project.

Premier Higgs is doing just what he said he would do during the election campaign, in the Speech from the Throne and in his State of the Province address.

I believe most people respect a person who keeps their word.

February was a great month to get outdoors and enjoy our New Brunswick winter. Up in Plaster Rock, The World Pond Hockey championship brought teams from all over the world, with the championship team hailing from the Czech Republic. The whole event was once again produced through volunteerism.

Our Canada Winter Games team once again made us proud at the February games in Red Deer, Alberta. The winter games are one more platform for our athletes to shine along with the legions of volunteers who support them. We also learned in February that Woodstock special Olympian Patti Connors is heading for the Special Olympics World Games in Abu Dhabi.

On February 12th I joined members of the Agricultural Alliance of New Brunswick at the Boyce Farmers Market to promote their awareness campaign for buying locally grown food. Our New Brunswick farming and fishing families work long hours to provide us with fresh, good food. It is up to us to make the effort to support their efforts. Please make that effort and add one more locally grown item to your grocery list this week. If we make eating local a habit, everyone wins.

I look forward to our next communication. By that time we will know which groundhog was right.

St Patrick's Day Traditions

Corned Beef. Each year, thousands of Irish Americans gather with their loved ones on St. Patrick's Day to share a "traditional" meal of corned beef and cabbage. Though cabbage has long been an Irish food, corned beef only began to be associated with St. Patrick's Day at the turn of the century. Oct 27, 2009

St. Patrick's Day is a holiday that honors St. Patrick and celebrates all things Irish. Every year on March 17th, some kids dress up in green and look for shamrocks, while others try to catch the elusive St. Paddy's Day leprechaun.

If we don't wear green, it's considered shameful and we get pinched. In addition to that, people often wear green on St. Patrick's Day to make themselves invisible to mischievous leprechauns. Anyone who practices the pinching tradition and pinches others who aren't wearing green can be compared to the leprechauns.

How Does a Volunteer Driving Program Impact Your Community?

Salisbury, Petitcodiac, Havelock, Elgin and surrounding areas are rural and therefore un-serviced by any form of public transportation. How then do people who cannot drive for either physical, medical or financial reasons get to their appointments, grocery store, bank or any other essential service? Rural Rides is a volunteer driving program. Volunteer drivers, who use their own vehicles, help their neighbors access medical, food and life needs by offering transportation. Drivers pick up the client at their home and take them where they need to go and then take them back home again. There are many beneficial impacts on communities serviced by volunteer driving programs.

1. Access to transportation allows people to stay in their rural communities. Often when people develop illness or are under financial strain, they are forced to move to more urban locations where they can access public transportation. Having a safe, affordable transportation service helps people, seniors especially, stay in their community. Our seniors are a valuable resource, rich in knowledge and experience, who help make our communities a great place to live.

2. Shortens medical wait times by reducing missed appointments. Many of the doctor and hospital appointments that are missed or cancelled at the last minute each month are because of a lack of transportation. Not only is the first appointment a missed opportunity for someone to get medical attention but the rescheduled appointment also takes up the doctor's time. The ability to book transportation in advance helps minimize missed appointments.

3. Provides support for adult children caring for their parent(s).

Access to transportation for medical appointments during work hours helps minimize lost work time for adults who would normally have to take time off to drive their parent(s) to an appointment.

4. Helps reduce loneliness and isolation for those who do not have transportation by giving them an opportunity to get out of the house and interact with others by going to recreational activities, running errands or even chatting with their driver. Improves overall quality of life.

5. Increases the appeal and value of our communities attracting new residents because there is an affordable transportation option.

6. Gives volunteers a sense of purpose and a way to give back to their community, help others and meet new people.

Rural Rides has been providing transportation in the Salisbury Petitcodiac area since 2014 and in Tantramar since 2017 and is part of the WA Transpo expansion covering all of Westmorland and Albert Counties. Rural Rides, a volunteer driving program, has seen explosive growth in the need for transportation in the past couple of months. As the demand for service increases, our need for more volunteer drivers increases as well. If you would like to volunteer and be a part of the positive impact on your community please call Kelly at 215-2100. You can volunteer as little as a few hours a month or more depending on your schedule of availability.

If you or someone you know is struggling to find transportation, they can register for free as a client by calling 215-2100 or by visiting our website at ruralridesnb.com.

Let's Eat Out

As a Family

Kids skating in the backyard, tripping over the cracks in the ice which is covering the vast fields; soaking up the sun shining from the blue cloudless sky; asking for hot chocolate after 90 minutes, and their cheeks more red than pink; dads joining in the fun with a hockey stick and a chair for the onlookers- this is part of what my family day in New Brunswick looked like. It got me thinking of the many places we can go as families to play and to eat together and not use up the budget. There are many monthly breakfasts and suppers in the area around Salisbury and Petitcodiac.

- First North River Baptist Church has a pancake supper and they also serve scalloped potatoes, beans, sausages, homemade brown bread and desserts. Many local churches have special suppers for different times on the year like Shrove Tuesday and Christmas teas.

- Salisbury Lions put on an all-you-can-eat buckwheat pancake and sausage breakfast on the third Saturday of every month

- The local Legions put on breakfasts and lunches and suppers at various times. Check them out.

- Havelock has a monthly pancake supper the first Saturday of the month

- Other groups like the Kiwanis put on an annual fundraising breakfast

- All the Winter Festival activities

- I am sorry if I missed mentioning your spot you go as a family. Just fill that location in here now!

I have checked each of these out and the food has always been delicious. The prices always show that the organizers take our families into consideration by charging a lower price for the younger ones. I am proud to be part of our little, big-hearted communities, where we always meet friends and new friends and become like family.

This newspaper tries to list the upcoming events for us. I am thankful for that. I sit with my calendar as I read the News and Views, and jot down anything I want to attend, recording times and phone numbers.

And one place I know is a favourite in my family...each other's kitchens!

2nd Annual Albert County Chamber of Commerce Awards Gala April 6th

Broadleaf Ranch will play host to the 2019 ACCoFC Business Excellence Awards Gala

The 2nd Annual Albert County Chamber of Commerce (ACCoFC) Business Excellence Awards Gala is taking place at Broadleaf Ranch on April 6th, 2019. The evening kicks off at 6pm with a half hour of networking and hors d'oeuvres, featuring local Albert County 'Fundy Fresh' producers. The award presentations begin at 6:30, and guests will enjoy a delicious meal and entertainment throughout. The businesses in Albert County are at the root of a sustainable economy, and the Gala is a fantastic opportunity to come together and celebrate them, along with the culture, community pride and natural wonders of the County, before the busy season begins.

To nominate an outstanding business, visit the Albert County Chamber of Commerce website. There are a wide array of award categories ranging from the tourism sector, to environmental stewardship, emerging business and community spirit. The full list of award descriptions is available on the website. If you'd like to join CBDC Westmorland-Albert in supporting the event, sponsorship information is also on the website.

The mission of the ACCoFC is to promote economic and commercial prosperity in Albert County.

"The Business Excellence Awards Gala is a highlight of our year and we hope you'll join us! Nominations are coming in and we are thrilled with the response. Recognizing and celebrating the excellence in our business community is an important piece in developing a healthy rural economy."

The Promise

By Gloria Scribner

It won't be long now before the snow melts and ice goes out of the rivers, ditches start rushing with excitement, the March hare sheds his coat, children brave the winds of change while waiting for the school bus and pedestrians dodge the spray of passing cars. March is mostly winter with a promise of spring. Down the road about 3 weeks or so the promise will be almost ready to materialize, popping up everywhere from budding limbs to later sunsets, frolicking critters and the animal world preparing to become one huge maternity ward.

It's then we start searching out crocus and begin raking away transient leaves of yesteryear. Each hint of new life brings a smile of hope and excitement as once again the sound of the turtle dove is heard on the land. In years gone by beards were shaved, long-johns forsaken and heavy quilts given their annual washing. Rugs were pulled up and beaten outside like crazy. I like to think about Mama, house-cleaning everything, from the attic to the cellar. I can still smell the Bon-Ami, Spic and Span, and see the wallpaper paste bubbling in the big white dishpan in the woodstove. Oh, my! That woman could clean! I no longer share her passion. I did once, when the paint-brush was my best friend, but lately I hesitate to admit I even own one. I can imagine Mama shaking her head and tsk'ing me (If she can see me from up there.) But even shame will not make me pick up that paintbrush, even if I could remember where I hid it! I'd sooner work and hire a house-maid.

Spring is a natural time for renewal. Even the kids want to rid themselves of school books, lunch pails and chalk scented rooms. The March break is a welcome respite as they anticipate a roaring send off on the fleeting slopes, steering snow-mobiles meticulously over shrinking paths, staring hypnotically at digital paraphernalia, or just sleeping in for a whole week. Meanwhile the maple-bush is just over the hill and soon the sap will be flowing. It's then that it tastes so good to be a Canadian.

As I ponder these blessings of change I feel lately as though I'm a spectator watching the seasons overtaking one another, not like ships, but like old friends in the night. I am reminded of God's promise, that as long as the Earth will last the four seasons will exist. There will be rain showers and long lazy summer nights and cozy winter evenings by the fireside. I'm so thankful that we have a maker we can depend upon. When life makes us weary we needn't fret, for a change is always in the offing. Just look from the window of your heart and He'll be standing there with His eyes smiling and His arms outstretched full of springtime and promise. He's always true to His word. I just wish He'd bring a paint brush! I think I hear Him laughing.

Marriage is not for everyone but for some, it was an abbreviated journey. You've got Elizabeth Taylor who was married 8 times or perhaps more. She married everyone from Saudi princes to truck drivers. Then again, Katherine Hepburn had a rather short career as a bride, having fallen head over heels at the sight of a socialite tycoon. Out went the wedding invitations and a caterer was hired to feed the crowd at the post ring ceremony celebrations. Yup, they both said... I do! 2 weeks later, he was sleeping on the living room couch. Come the end of the third week, divorce papers were filed and lawyers were lining up at the front door! And then, you've got Dennis Hopper, star of Easy Rider who was smitten by Michelle Phillips. It was a whirlwind romance and a demolition derby. The ink was barely dry on the wedding document and it was over in 8 days! Hard to beat, you say? You'd be dead wrong. Buck Owens married a lady fiddler in a love at first sight wedding. Everyone thought they'd make beautiful music together. They did, for a total of 48 hours! They were both off key. People have had hangovers that lasted longer. Now, top that all off if you will. Rudolph Valentino did. His marriage lasted all of 45 minutes and they were both out trolling for new partners. That gives a whole new meaning to the expression .... ABBREVIATED !

Steven Budd

Steven Donald Budd, 74, of Colpitts Settlement passed away at his home on Tuesday, February 19, 2019. Born in Gallagher Ridge, NB, he was the beloved spouse of Lois Budd nee Boomhour, for over 52 years and son of the late Cleveland and Irene (Trites) Budd.

Steve was a retired Cpl. for the Canadian Armed Forces. He had his journeyman's license as a mechanic and worked in Manitoba for some time and for CN Rail. He later started his own Logging Company producing pulp and firewood. He was a jack of all trades and a hands-on learner. Steven was ambitious and always completed what he set out to do. He felt most at home when he was outdoors. He enjoyed tapping trees to make maple syrup, and building many things, including his sugar shack, his log home, his own band-saw, and a large kitchen table that served his greatest passion, dinners enjoyed with his large family.

In addition to his wife, Steven is survived and sadly missed by his children, Steven Nelson Budd (Lui) of Greenwood, NS, Kristal Irene Lounsbury nee Budd (Danny Goddard), and David Nathan Budd (Nikki Goguen-Budd) all of Salisbury; grandchildren, Steven Budd of Fredericton, Ryan Budd (Morgan) of Halifax, Micheala Lounsbury of Red Deer, AB, Nathan Lounsbury, Tyler and Brittney Goddard (Ryan) all from the greater Moncton area, and TJ (Tony) Goguen (Carrie) of Red Deer, AB; siblings, Beth Dawson (Murray) Of Bible Hill, NS and Phillip Budd (Violet) of Gallagher Ridge; numerous nieces, nephews, great-nieces and nephews; special friends Joan & Alan Hill and Ralph MacArthur; and many honorary members of the Budd family.

OBITUARIES

Hollis Steeves

Hollis Stanley Steeves, 83, passed away at his home in Second North River on Saturday, January 19, 2019. Born in Moncton, NB, he was the son of the late Stanley and Thelma (Gilbert) Steeves.

Hollis joined the army shortly after completing school, and proudly served with the PPCLI and Provost Corps. He went on to join the Ontario Provincial Police, and later, the Barrie Police Force. He was always interested in farming and gardening, which brought him back home to New Brunswick where he owned and operated Mountain Meadow Dairy Farms. He was elected as a member to the New Brunswick Legislative Assembly. He raced horses, ran a strawberry U-Pick and was a Deacon at the Second North River United Baptist Church. His daughters would say "What didn't Dad do? Honestly, we could write a book."

Dad was extremely dedicated and caring to his community. He truly was a renaissance man, never afraid to try something new and completely different. He wasn't perfect; he was human, with a huge capacity for love and family. He was larger than life.

Funeral Arrangements are in the care of Salisbury Funeral Home and Crematorium. There was a Celebration of Life at the Second North River United Baptist Church on Tuesday, January 29, 2019 at 11 am with Pastor Robb Hunt officiating. Interment in Pinehill Cemetery in the spring.

In lieu of flowers, memorials to The Second North River United Baptist Church, Canadian Diabetes Association or charity of the donor's choice would be appreciated.

Paul Chenard, BDESCOM

Artist/designer/writer

My passion is for the history of automobile racing, which I show through my motor sports artwork and writing.
I'm trying to capture the "feeling" that the spectator has watching the race, their favorite driver in battle, or the classic racecar at rest.

I don't limit myself to any one medium, doing my art in pencil, colour pencils,
hand-cut aluminum, pen&ink, scratchboard, acrylic on canvas, laser-cut stainless-steel sculpture/illustration and even house paint. I've also done art commissions of motorcycles, aircraft and cars.

More and more, I'm being hired to be the roving artist at events such as the Pinehurst Concours d'Élégance, where my art raises money for the supported charity.

Recently, I was hired by the Classic Car
Club of America to be their guest artist for their annual CARavan Tour held in New England, the first artist to be officially part of the event.

I've written, illustrated, designed, hand-assembled, and published a limited edition book "Silver Clouds: The 1934 Grand Prix Season", now sold out. Late last year, I wrote, designed and published

"Ferrari In Art" featuring my Ferrari art and I'm currently writing two more books. I've also written magazine features.

My work has been featured in Classic &
Sports Car, Classic Motorsports,
Motor Sport, Octane, Échappement
Classic, Vintage Motorsport, Étoiles
Passion, Sport AUTO, Classic Mercedes,
Sports Car International, Autostrada
Forum, Sports Car Market, Garage Style,
New Zealand CLASSIC Driver,
TopGear Poland, Historic Motor Racing
News, Vintage Racecar and Victory
Lane magazines. I'm represented in the UK by the Historic Car Art gallery.
I currently live in Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada.

PETITCODIAC, SALISBURY AND SURROUNDING AREA COMMUNITY HEALTH & WELLNESS ADVISORY COMMITTEE

In 2014 Horizon Health released a Community Health Needs Assessment (CHNA) for the communities of Petitcodiac, Salisbury and the surrounding areas. This CHNA was meant to talk to individuals and organizations in the area about their community health - looking at all the ways our physical health is influenced by how we the social conditions around us. Since then, a group of engaged citizens and organizational representatives have met to talk about the recommendations that came out of that report and how they can be worked on a ground level.

Our focus is on:

Building and maintaining connected, inclusive communities

Access to good, healthy food for all

Transportation

Primary healthcare and understanding of how to access services

Increasing the activity level of people in our community of all ages and abilities

Come join the Salisbury Naturalists on Tuesday, March 12th @ 7PM at the Salisbury Parks & Leisure office. Everyone is welcome. This month's presentation will be:

Our Small Rodent Community and Those That Depend on Them

Presenter: Nelson Poirier-Nelson is a well known Moncton naturalist who has an extremely broad knowledge of nature. His presentation skills are superb.

The small rodents may be some of the most populous members of Mother Nature's community and are no doubt some of the most significant members of that community in providing food to mammals and birds up the food chain that we all appreciate so much such as owls and other raptors as well as some of the larger wild mammals like foxes, wild cats, coyote, weasels, mink, etc.

As numerous as the small rodents are, we don't often get to see them due to their secretive, nocturnal, and sometimes only ground-level life. Let's spend a few moments with Nelson Poirier getting to know these smaller creatures by their first names and learn about their very interesting life and times. At the same time, let's become aware of the critters whose existence depends upon the population of the small rodent community.

The Shop was located across the street from the Moncton High School.

Lorraine welcomed the students to "hang out" in the shop. They came in and out, spending noon hour amongst friends, to them it was a place of security, acceptance and respect, a home away from home. There were a few rules: Always shut the door, no smoking inside, respect Lorraine and her store and use good language.
