From the Editor

2022 has seen events looking more like what we did before Covid, and it seems like the crowds are even better, as the people had been pinned down and couldn't do any of their usual events.

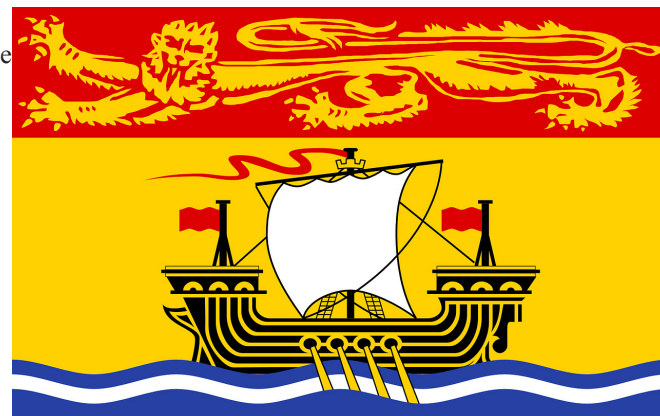

New Brunswick Day is Monday, August 1st, enjoy the events planned for that day and play safe.

The 2022 Westmorland County Agriculture Fair, Corey Ave. in Petitcodiac will get in full swing August 5,6,7. It will celebrate years of family fun and entertainment. Salisbury Community Days is August 18-21, mark your calendar for a fun time.

Hard to believe that it is time to get the student's ready for school again, and the summer games will soon be done for another summer.

Enjoy and have fun for the remainder of August.

From your Editor,
Winona McLean

Happy New Brunswick Day

Village Council News

A big Petitcodiac thank you to all the people who participated in the recent communities in bloom event. I had the pleasure of acting as your guide for the two judges and showing them the highlights of Petitcodiac. Both judges were pleasantly surprised to learn all the programs, activities and opportunities Petitcodiac has to offer. In their 1 1/2 days of examining all aspects of Petitcodiac, they were exposed to everything from Maritime Geothermal, to the Community Garden, to private homes (thank you), to the Waterfowl Trail, to Veterans Park. They were especially taken with the PRS elementary students garden club. Under the direction of teacher Sam Cornect, the students have grown a large variety of garden vegetables and herbs. They made a presentation at the closing dinner that left no doubt they were knowledgeable, enthusiastic, hard-working and dedicated members of the program.

I want to extend a special thank you to Mrs. Joyce Barbour for heading up and coordinating the Communities in Bloom event. Great job Joyce!!!

I want to thank all the members of the Codiak Classics Car Club for setting up the car show downtown. This is a great opportunity for the Village of Petitcodiac to showcase our Main Street and all it has to offer.

Good news! Our 1979 Massey Ferguson tractor has been saved from the boneyard. We are hoping it can limp through the rest of the summer doing some mowing and digging the odd post hole. Fingers crossed!

The gas tax paving projects of E. Main St., Third Street and the section between the end of Hooper Lane and Maple Street have been completed. The Village Works Crew has been working diligently to finish the asphalt patching within the village. Please be patient, this too will come to pass.

I recently received an email from our MLA Ross Wetmore. The new medical center is now a submitted Capital Project with an estimated cost of $13,500,000.

Again, I want to thank all of the workers and organizers for putting on this year's Westmorland County Agricultural Fair.

The fair will begin on Friday, August 5 at 7 AM and ends on Sunday, August 7 in the afternoon. I'm sorry to say there will be no rides at the fair this year. The two companies that provide these rides have informed us that it is not economically viable for them to attend small rural fairs. "Hope to see you at the Fair!"

I also want to thank the Petitcodiac and Area Garden Club for all of their efforts at the community garden. They have been working feverishly to improve the community garden and complete the new updates to the community garden and orchard.

A warm Petitcodiac welcome to the members of the Holmes/Davidson descendants who are visiting our village on July 30. They will be visiting some of their old family haunts within the village and later plan to attend the Community Garden. They hope to have a photo session at the Holmes Burnham Sawmill sign and if possible, travel to the sawmill site. Again, welcome to all and I hope you have a great visit!

Remember to visit the farmers market in our downtown Veterans Park each Saturday morning from 9 AM to 1 PM. Come and listen to the music and browse the vendors' products.

On behalf of the Council of the Village of Petitcodiac, our sincerest and warmest welcome to all new residents of our community! If you require any information concerning municipal services, you can contact the village office at 756-3140.

A How-To for Saving the Bees

Mark Cullen is an expert gardener, author, broadcaster, tree advocate and Member of the Order of Canada. His son Ben is a fourth-generation urban gardener and graduate of University of Guelph and Dalhousie University in Halifax. Follow them at markcullen.com, @markcullengardening, and on Facebook.

Sometimes, we make simple problems complicated. Attracting pollinators to your garden should be straightforward but it gets complicated by plant types, blossom times and the pollinators you want to attract (lots of honeybees, fewer wasps).

Thankfully, Toronto has its own experts in the field, Lorraine Johnson and Sheila Colla. They have seized upon the recent surge of interest in habitat restoration and native plant gardening with their combined decades of expertise. Their new book titled “A Garden for the Rusty-Patched Bumblebee: Creating Habitat for Native Pollinators”, with beautiful illustrations by Toronto artist Ann Sanderson, is the perfect handbook for anybody wanting to approach their garden with an ecological bent without getting lost in the weeds (garden joke).

Think of the rusty-patched bumblebee as a euphemism for all the good bugs in the world. The ones that help to pollinate and fertilize 1/3 of the food we eat.

Why the rusty-patched bumblebee? The once-common native bee has been in decline since the 1980’s along with many other native species. Their problems relate to the decline of habitats which support native pollinator communities. The last known rustypatched bumblebee sighting in Canada was by the author Sheila Colla in Pinery Provincial Park in 2009. In 2012, it was the first native bee in Canada to be officially designated as endangered. This is a handbook for creating habitat to bring the rusty-patched, and others like it, back from the brink.

Johnson and Colla guide the reader through a thoughtful journey in the first half of the book of why native pollinator habitats are so important to the gardener and how to create them. This book is accessible, enjoyable and is worth revisiting for the ‘a-ha’ moments you are bound to experience as you read it.

The second part of the book details native plants are so important to pollinator species and explains why they are. The unique co-dependencies between native plant and native pollinator are surprising as they are important. With the importance of habitat and native plants well established, the book then lays out exactly how you can start your garden for the rusty-patched bumblebee. Site preparation, design, plant selection and maintenance are all laid out in such simple terms that you will find yourself running to the yard to get started.

If you aren’t already an avid native plant gardener, this book will be the revelation that opens a whole new world of gardening to you. For many long-time gardeners, Johnson and Colla offer a complete re-education on a world of plants you thought you knew. Drawing on Johnson’s deep knowledge on the topic, this is as complete a guide to gardening for beneficial nature that we have encountered. Here are some of our favourites which will be going into our gardens for the rusty-patched bumblebee:

- Jack-in-the-Pulpit (Arisaema triphyllum) is attractive to Ben especially for his heavily shaded, woodland garden. Jack-in-the-Pulpit has a specialist relationship with pink-legged tiger moth and goes well with other native woodland flowers such as great white trillium, wakerobin, wild geranium, baneberry, wild blue phlox, and mayapple. You can pair native plants like wine and cheese.

- Canada Goldenrod (Solidago canadensis) is a full-sun, fall-blooming “former weed”. Until recently, that is how it was viewed by many, but as we learn more, we appreciate its ecological value and natural beauty. The list of specialist relationships is long - in fact, it’s hard to find a garden plant that supports more native bees and butterflies.

- Little Bluestem Grass (Scizachryium scoparium) is a great native grass with a lower growing habit of only 50-60cm height. Perfect for smaller gardens. Reddish brown florets with reddish leaves that will stand upright through the winter are two ornamental properties. It hosts common wood-nymph butterfly and various skippers, which are flying insects somewhere between moths and butterflies, which include dusted, cobweb, ottos, Indian, swarthy, crossline, and Leonard’s (all beneficial).

Start with a garden for the rusty patched bumblebee, get ready to attract a host of other beneficial insects, and discover your love of gardening for nature.

Recently in the newspaper classified was this ad - OLD SICKNESS PLANER . 12 inches wide for $50. Ok now, let me get this straight --- is this some kind of a gizmo that removes one layer at a time of your sickness? I'm thinking that would be quite painful!

Ok now, let's talk sarcasm! An automotive writer has this quote dating back to 1955, when chromed-up land yachts roamed the highways. And the quotation.... cars that are 20 feet long and weigh 2 tons or more are used to run a 128 pound housewife 4 blocks to the drug store to purchase a 2 oz package of bobby pins and a tube of lipstick. Sometimes, she may even buy a box of kleenex but the car can handle the extra weight!

The Rainbow

Two little clouds one summer day
Went flying through the sky;
They went so fast they bumped their heads,
And both began to cry.

Old Father Sun looked out and said:
"Oh! never mind, my dears;
I'll send my little fairy-folk
To dry your falling tears."

One fairy came in violet,
And one in indigo;
In blue, green, yellow, orange, red,--
They made a pretty row.

They wiped the cloud-tears all away,
and then, from out the sky,
Upon a line the sunbeams made,
They hung their gowns to dry.

From the Desk of Your MLA Ross Wetmore, Gagetown - Petitcodiac

Those who said, 'It will be New Brunswick Day before you know it.' were right.

Whether it was mentioned during a February snow squall, in the March mud or as recently as Canada Day, which was only the day before yesterday, or so it seems.

July 15th marked the mid-point of summer, making New Brunswick Day the next milepost of summertime '22.

I hope you are experiencing some of the festivals, events, sights, sounds and soul-enriching beauty that we are surrounded by in our wonderful province during this summer season. Gardens are doing well, and folks are telling me we have had one good cut of hay with hopes for another, encouraging news to be sure.

Anticipation is building for the Westmorland County Agricultural Fair, which is just days away now. I hope you have a chance to take in some of the events. A lot of people have put heart and soul into a return to the fair after the last couple of years. I know we are all hoping they enjoy a great success.

As we celebrate New Brunswick Day, we celebrate the people who wove the rich history of our province and that of our region.

We celebrate why and how we are here today and those people who came from a world away in search of freedom, opportunity, prosperity, adventure and all those things that come from a better life.

We celebrate the First Nations people who welcomed them in peace and friendship. We celebrate all the people who come to our province still, in search of those great things, and hope we might help them find peace and happiness in our beautiful part of the world.

We celebrate who we were, who we have become and who we might one day become if we remain driven by kindness, caring and compassion for one another.

I hope you enjoy New Brunswick Day and get to celebrate with family and friends.

The return of Salisbury Community Days begins on Thursday, August 18th!

That day, Royal Canadian Legion Br. 31 will host its popular Seniors Day Luncheon from 10am-2pm.

Then in the evening, come down to Highland Park for an outdoor movie under the stars featuring the 2022 animated film "The Bad Guys," with snacks courtesy of the Salisbury Department of Recreation and Wellness. Be sure to bring a chair or blanket to sit on!

Meantime, Salisbury Public Library will be providing a take-home craft to do that week -- and don't forget to visit the Village Office and submit your Colouring Contest entry!

On the evening of Friday, August 19th we'll have the lawn tractor races on the Recreation and Wellness grounds behind 62 Douglas Street, and also find out who makes the best chili around with the popular Chili Cook-Off!

Saturday, August 20th is PARADE Day!

Start the morning at the Salisbury Lions Club Pancake Breakfast, and go hunting for deals in the village-wide yard sales.

Then the Parade will begin at noon, following the usual route.

There will also be lots to do outside the municipal building on Douglas, including face-painting, Henna art, demonstrations by Science East, and other fun -- and FOOD! Lots of food!!

Stay tuned for additional activities by visiting our Facebook Event Page.

A complete schedule will also be available online at www.salisburynb.ca, or just contact the Village Office at 372-3230 or vilsalisbury@nb.aibn.com.

The Gardeners Hands

by Gloria Scribner

I plant and weed and water flowers
And bed them down in loam
I smile as each one blossoms
For they brighten up my home
I kept the slugs away, and built
A fence to bar the dogs
From lying in the flowerbed
I built it out of logs
I carry water in a can
To see they don't get dry
And prune the roses yearly
If they're growing up too high
It seems it takes a lot of time
Lord, I don't understand

Just how "your" flower garden grows
In gravel, rock or sand
I gathered brown-eyed-Susans
So abundant by the road
And chamomile and yarrow
That no "human" hand had sowed
Milkweed, asters, golden rod
In rainbow colours still
"Your" garden far surpassed my own
And Lord, "It always will"
Sometimes my heart goes wandering
I tumble in the sands
It's then I see you smile
And raise me up with "gardeners" hands

Critical illness insurance explained

While being diagnosed with a critical illness like cancer, stroke, or heart attack could change your lifestyle, it doesn't need to change your financial plans. Critical illness insurance can help reduce your financial worries so you can focus on recovery.

Colours of August

by Gloria Scribner

August is one of those months that bridges the gap between garden rows, with baskets of beans, peas, carrots, and little new potatoes just right for hodge-podge. It bridges the gap between hot summer nights, and cool impending school days (up and coming), book learning days and holiday visitors farewells. It bridges a gap between campfires and weiner roasts, barbecues and song-fests, beach parties and trailer park farewells. August is the month of blueberry harvests, blackberry cobbles and kichen canning.

It beckons us to the wildwood, where mushrooms climb trees in tiers, and tangled bushes wrap their arms around each other, and rose-hips add their splash of colour here and there like jewels. All along the deer-paths grow pigeon berries of orange, while chanterelles lie peeking from the moss.

August watches cornstalks inching their way toward the sun and grape-vines on the sloping hills meander through the fleeting summer. I sit on my verandah and gaze across the field where deer graze, romp, and now and then inch their way toward my yard, "not this year, ladies". The leaves of my tiny maples may look inviting, but I'll guard them. You've chewed them off for five years, "or were you just pruning them?" We'll see. They do seem to be coming up hardier.

August is icing on the summer cake. It's the scent of honeysuckle, the taste of huckleberries, and the sweet song of birds on cool mornings, as they teach their young to soar, and hummingbirds dart among the crimson flox and scarlet poppies.

August nights are serene and country fairs are "in the swing" across the land. Jars of jams and "preserved everythings" compete for red ribbons and produce boasting the best of garden plot are on proud display, vying likewise.

August boasts the music of carousel, the laughter of cotton-candy faces, and the exuberance of teamsters in anual competition.

August bridges the gap between rainbows and crimson sunsets, between blue-grey skies and starry nights.

All across our beloved land, the flags of each province wave as citizens extoll the beauty and worth of "their own little patch of Heaven", and are proud to call it "home".

August in New Brunswick is hard work, hope on the vine, and togetherness, whether splashing in woodland pools, chasing fireflies, or kissing goodnight on the verandah. It's old as time in its nostalgic rythm.

Our grandparents knew August and our grandchildren will know her too, because August bridges the gap between generations. Enjoy it. It's our God-given heritage.

MEMORIAL

In Memory of
Fred MacLaren
August 27, 1951 - August 27, 2016

I turn to speak, but you aren't there.
Oh can it be, you're gone?
The weeks and months
are slipping by,
But your memory lingers on.

I miss you most when day is done,
and evening shadows fall.
And as the wind slips through the trees,
seems to hear your call.

The day was dark and so forlorn,
when you were laid to rest,
But I am thankful now I'm not alone.
With your memory I am blest.

The Heavens Declare

“The heavens declare the glory of God; the skies proclaim the work of his hands. Day after day they pour forth speech; night after night they reveal knowledge.” Psalm 19:1-2

With the recent release of photos from the James Webb telescope, we have the privilege of looking deeper and clearer into space than any generation before us. The huge expanse of space is almost unnerving.

We can look at these pictures from two viewpoints. We can say “Wow, it is amazing what has occurred over countless billions of years by chance from a source that we do not know”. Or, we can say “Wow, it is amazing what has been created by the God who wants to be known.”

As our telescopes and microscopes get more and more powerful, we have the incredible opportunities to see the great things that an infinite, extravagant God can do. We can either see His work in it all, or see nothing but the work of pure “chance”, which is nothing more than a mathematical expression of probability.

The heavens are declaring the answer. Do you see it?

Dave McPherson - Pastor
 New Canaan Baptist Church, Route 112

Petitcodiac Area Garden Club

Hello Gardening Friends! Well, the judges from Communities in Bloom have come and gone. They were very impressed with our village and how much has been accomplished since they last were here in 2019. Of course, the pandemic is the reason they were not able to do the competition for two years.

Arriving late on the afternoon of the 12th, they had a few minutes to relax before driving to the Golf Course for a meal with Mayor Dan Pollock, Councillors Robinson and Lymburner as well as myself as the representative of the village for CiB. The next morning, we were off for a full day of visiting and touring our great village with stops at the Village office, Village Works Garage, S.P.O.T., Maritime Motorsports Hall of Fame, War Museum, PRS student Community Garden, Veterans' Park, The Pantry, The Maple Street Community Garden as well as squeezing in lunch at the Cedar Café and visiting three backyard gardens. We hosted them that evening at the Royal Canadian Legion for a beautiful cold plate dinner and strawberry shortcake and a great presentation by three Grade 5 students from the PRS student garden. Some of the invited guests who attended included our MLA Ross Wetmore and his wife Margaret, Mayor Pollock, Councillor Lymburner, CiB Committee members, some of the contacts at the various points of interests we visited earlier that day and the gardeners who allowed us to visit their backyards.

The following day, the judges felt that there was so much more to see before they left at lunch time, so we took a little time on that morning to visit a few more points of interests, including our playgrounds, the Holmes/Burnham Sawmill Trail, the WCA Fair Grounds, Maritime Geothermal, the Waterfowl Trail and the swimming pool.

They departed from us saying they were amazed with the things this small village has to offer. They gave many helpful tips for future CiB competitions including the need for accommodations here in the village. So, if you are thinking of opening a B&B or building a motel here, go for it! There has always been a need here in the village for accommodations for sporting events all year round, car shows, tourists and visiting family from out of town.

So how did we do? The results of the competition will be announced in October, during the CiB Symposium in Victoria, BC. I would like to thank all the volunteers of the CiB Committee, Petitcodiac Garden Club members, Village Council, Kiwanis, S.P.O.T., Great Canadian Dollar Store, McCully's Landscaping, Kevin Murray and so many others who helped with making this possible. A special thanks to Adam McKiel, our Village Works Manager, and his team who do a terrific job in keeping our village looking so neat and tidy. Job well done everyone!

A special shout out to Brian Gaudet who built the train in the new green space at the corner of Main and Old Post Rd. The judges LOVED it and it is a beautiful addition to the village! More plans are in the works for that park next year.

And thank you to everyone who tidied up their front yards, picked up litter, mowed their lawns, etc. We appreciate your help in improving the appearance of your properties. We live in a great community and the pride we take in our community certainly shone through. If you are new to our village, I hope you explore some of the places I have mentioned and enjoy all everything Petitcodiac has to offer.

In other news, it's been a good growing season so far with rain, humidity, and warm temperatures that plants love. It is always exciting to see the fresh vegetables and fruits growing in our own gardens. The Community Garden and individual gardens are flourishing, and people are beginning to enjoy the fruits of their labor. There are few things more wonderful than a bouquet of flowers and tables garnished with fruits and vegetables right from the garden?

With the recent grant money received, four raised gardens have been purchased. One has been placed in the community, while the others are at the Community Garden. There will be more to come. Speaking of grants, work is continuing with the Orchard Pathway project. It is a large undertaking, and we are very thankful for the local support in bringing this project to life. Stay tuned for more updates as we get closer to the grand opening.

Although, the Annual Garden tour often takes place in July, with the number of activities taking place in July, a decision was made to move this year's tour to September. We expect the weather will be a bit cooler and gardens will be showing their late season splendor.

Throughout August there is a lot of work to keep the Community Garden maintained. Everyone is welcome to stop in Wednesday evenings from 6:30-8:30 pm (weather permitting) to help with watering, weeding, and the joy of harvesting.

For the latest news and upcoming events, join our Facebook page Petitcodiac and Area Garden Club. For more information on any of our activities or to join our team of volunteers, call Cathy Drury 756-2068 or Karen Hall-Middleton 756-8824.

Another month has come and gone already, which means The Pantry is officially one year old! Thank you to everyone who supported us in our first year! We couldn't have done it without you all :)

We are officially in summer mode, which means fresh vegetables! Yay! We are always looking for new farmers to partner with who might want to sell some produce. Don't hesitate to call us if you have extra, 331-0088. If you don't have enough to sell, but have extra in the garden this year, we graciously accept donations for our community table and fridge. This is a great way to ensure food doesn't go to waste and can be shared with the community instead.

A few new products at The Pantry we are excited about are Sussex Ice Cream, Sum Good Freezies & Sai Krishna Samosas & butter chicken meals.

Perfect for the summer months when you need a cool treat, or don't feel like cooking!

If you haven't tried Zannas Sizzling Cafe here in Petty you should definitely stop by, Charles and Khristina are great people and make fantastic food. We are happy to offer some of their products frozen and ready to go, for a quick supper.

The market is off to a great start and we look forward to it every Saturday. Don't hesitate to send us a msg if you would like to set a table up!

Hope everyone has a great August, and hope to see you soon @ The Pantry!

FAINTING FRIGHTENS, BUT IS USUALLY BENIGN

People have been swooning for joy since at least the 13th Century when the earliest recorded use of the word can be found. By the 20th Century, losing consciousness for love and rapture was a necessary attribute of a Southern belle. Even today, swooning has a positive connotation, defined as, "a few steps beyond being happy, but not so over the top that you scare children."

But change the language describing the same loss of consciousness and "blacking out like a light" is not so glamorous. Parents fainting with a thud on the floor most certainly gives the kids a fright.

But how dangerous is fainting? And how common a problem is it?

There have been some famous faints. Most recently, the 74-year-old America guitarist, Carlos Santana, passed out temporarily on stage in Michigan. Hillary Clinton had an episode during her Presidential campaign in 2016. In presidential circles, POTUS14, Franklin Pierce, was known as "Fainting Frank". Both Bush Sr. and Jr. had unglamorous occasions. And Obama and Trump interrupted speeches to help nearby fainters.

Fainting, otherwise known medically as syncope, is defined as a loss of consciousness followed by spontaneous recovery. It's caused by a decreased flow of blood to the brain. People may feel nauseous or dizzy. Being in the hot sun or not being hydrated are risk factors.

Doing something as simple as standing up can cause a faint. Blood pressure drops, reducing circulation to the brain. For the elderly, it becomes harder for their bodies to regulate blood pressure when moving from a lying or sitting position to standing.

Among even the young and healthy, fainting might be caused by hunger, anxiety, emotional swings, or alcohol and drug use.

According to various estimates, about 20-30% of the population has fainted at some point in life. In most cases, getting some rest is the easy prescription. But as with most things medical, prevention is the most prudent course. While the short loss of consciousness itself may not cause harm, seniors are prone to bad injuries when they fall from a faint. It can be disastrous if a faint occurs while driving.

To understand whether a fainting episode is a one-time event from a missed cue to slow down or a more serious problem involving heart trouble, doctors need to evaluate the patient. An important clue is the speed of recovery. If recovery is not swift, it's essential to get quick medical care.

Doctors will want a full patient history. An important set of considerations will be the list of medications.

People taking beta-blockers and ACE inhibitors which lower blood pressure may be more susceptible to trouble on hot days or when exerting themselves.

Antihistamines are powerful allergy medications, but they can also be a factor in fainting episodes. These drugs interact with the nervous system and therefore have many side effects. A change in dose should always be discussed with a doctor, and people who self-medicate by boosting their dosage are playing games with their health.

Other considerations will be recent bouts with ill health, including COVID, pneumonia, or any other common respiratory infection. Getting back to good health is job number one before pushing the pace at work or in leisure.

It's not easy to predict a faint or even to see it coming in the moments before it happens. But if you detect a person turning pale and their eyes glazing over, or if you notice someone's speech slowing down or difficulty in collecting their thoughts, get to their side and sit them down safely. Lower their head and raise their feet to restore blood flow.

If recovery is slow, get medical help.

We reimburse our drivers $.46/km for the use of vehicle.

Chance to Win a Set of New Tires

Urban Rural Rides is once again providing the opportunity for existing drivers or any new driver recruit to win a set of four tires! New Brunswick Day

Havelock Homecoming 2022

Havelock Homecoming 2022 on July 1st was a wonderful day to celebrate communities coming together. The entire day was a huge success, from breakfast at the Legion, to a fabulous parade, open houses at Graymont and Women's Institute, food venues, jail, suppers, kids carnival, duck race, free ice cream and freezies, a show and shine, a "touch a truck" complete with an exciting fire call, a kid's street dance, and astounding fireworks with the adult street dance finishing the day just as it began to rain. Our entire community came together with every single community group, church, business, club, and organization participating fully. We sincerely thank all the people who worked hard to make the day memorable. The next Havelock Homecoming Celebration will be in 2027, we hope to see you there!
